HITLER WATCHES ITALIAN PLANES SINK TWO SHIPS

400 Machines Take Part in Mock War.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 8.—After showing Reichsfuehrer Hitler his army and navy, Premier Mussolini today completed the picture with Italian air maneuvers at the airport of Furbara on the Tyrrhenian coast thirty-five miles northwest of Rome.

Arrow indicates where Hitler viewed Italian aerial display.

About 400 planes took part in the show—bombers, scout planes, and seaplanes.

The most spectacular stunt put on for Hitler's benefit was the sinking of two condemned merchant ships in the harbor by bombs from seaplanes.

28 Planes Attack Ship.

Twenty-eight seaplanes participated in the attack. They were led by Bruno Mussolini, the dictator's son. After the aerial display, the German dictator was taken to the nearby field of Santa Marinella where infantry and artillery units staged war games.

Hitler will leave for Florence tomorrow where he will spend ten hours and then entrain for Germany.

Diplomatic circles in Rome are disappointed at the speeches the two dictators made Saturday evening.

To Keep Out of South Tyrol.

Hitler's one notable statement was his guarantee that the Alpine frontier between the two countries would never be altered. In other words he renounced for good all claims to the German speaking population living in the South Tyrol which was annexed to Italy after the world war.

The extreme caution of the two dictators in their speeches suggests to experts here that for the present moment, however, it appears that the Rome-Berlin axis can be far more useful to Germany than to Italy despite unofficial reports from circles close to Hitler that Mussolini was asking for a closer alliance and that Hitler was refusing.

Mussolini's reluctance to come out with any indorsement for any dismemberment of Czechoslovakia or for continuing the Hitler push toward southeast Europe and the Black sea is attributed generally to Italian reluctance to displease the British at this stage of the game.

Nazis Far from Satisfied.

As the matter now stands Italy appears almost as one of the so-called "satisfied" powers, although there are further items on Mussolini's program. Germany, however, is far from being a "satisfied" power even with the annexation of Austria.

Profiting by his newly established rapprochement with Great Britain and the rapprochement with France which now is being prepared, Mussolini is able to act as an honest broker between Germany and Great Britain. Temporarily at least the situation is highly advantageous, enabling him to get any benefits possible from the Rome-Berlin axis while consolidating his position in the Mediterranean through his friendly agreement with Britain.

[Attributing the information to high Fascist sources, a Rome dispatch of the Associated Press said a bargain to divide Central Europe and the Balkans into Italo-German spheres of influence appeared to be the major outcome of Hitler's visit to Italy. Mussolini was reported to have promised not to oppose Hitler in anything he wants to do in Czechoslovakia. In return Hitler was said to have promised to respect Italy's interest in the Danubian and Balkan areas. In Jugo-Slavia and Bulgaria, the report intimated Il Duce's influence would be paramount with a division of trade between the two dictators. In Hungary their interests would be more or less equal. Rumania would be drawn into the constellation when she settled her frontier and minority conflict with Hungary. Mussolini's plan for a four power pact among Italy, Germany, France, and Britain apparently was dropped. German officials said Hitler's guarantee of the present German-Italian border was a "colossal sacrifice." The Nazis renounced claims to the South Tyrol and its 250,000 Germans which Italy acquired after the world war.]

DEMAND PROBE BY GRAND JURY IN PRESS RAID

Dictatorship Tactics Outrage Citizens.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Vincennes, Ind., May 8.—[Special.]—Mayor Joseph W. Kimmel's raid on Walter A. Ewing's print shop a week ago will be taken up here tomorrow before a grand jury.

An investigation is to be sought on the ground that the mayor rode rough shod over freedom of the press and the right of a citizen to security against search and seizure of property without warants and due process of law. The case is regarded as a specimen of press censorship, of which Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana is the exponent in Washington.

Up for scrutiny also will be the case of two policemen and two firemen suspended by Mayor Kimmel a few days ago in what Kimmel's opponents call a purge of city employés who did not take off their coats for him in last Tuesday's primaries.

Voters Defeat Kimmel.

At the polls the citizens defeated Kimmel for the Democratic nomination for state senator and nominated his opponent, C. G. [Dick] Ballard, by a vote of two to one. Claude Hill, the Kimmel candidate for mayor, was overthrown by A. B. [Bud] Taylor, backed by the "Kimmel machine busters."

Kimmel's charges against the police and firemen will be heard by the board of public works and safety. This board is composed of Mayor Kimmel, City Engineer Glenn Sandefer, who was defeated in the primaries for county surveyor, and City Attorney Shuler McCormick. City Clerk Joseph I. Muentzer, who was defeated for nomination for a third term by Joe Frey, is secretary of the board but has no voting power.

Town Torn with Controversy.

The ancient town of Vincennes is torn with controversy as a result of the press raid and the firing of the city workers. The political campaign was one of the bitterest it has known, and resentment and indignation still are boiling.

It's a great study in contrasts. A short distance away on the Wabash river is the memorial to George Rogers Clark who captured Fort Sackville, site of the monument, from the British in February, 1779. Clark and his frontiersmen gained the northwest, out of which were carved Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and part of Minnesota, in the revolution against British oppression.

Mayor Kimmel has held office nine years. As a mayor he is applauded for the public improvements he has brought to Vincennes—parks, slum removal, bathing beaches, levees, restoration of historic landmarks—but his exploit in press censorship is accounted largely a reason for his overthrow in the primaries.

Indictments to Be Sought.

Indictments charging the mayor with misfeasance and oppression are to be sought before the grand jury. The law provides that if an official is found guilty of these charges, the court is mandated to remove him. As a counter attack the mayor may seek grand jury action against the "machine busters," alleging criminal libel.

A statement of information was being prepared today by Dr. J. H. Hammon, an optical goods manufacturer, for submission to the grand jury. Hammon is a veteran Republican from McKinley days. After the 1936 Roosevelt election the exuberant Kimmel Democrats gave him a mock funeral procession and oration on the city hall lawn.

Wayne Combs, prosecuting attorney, after a conference with Dr. Hammon, said that any statement by any citizen in proper form would be submitted for consideration of the grand jury.

Witnesses to Be Suggested.

"My office," said Combs, "is no tool or instrument to nullify the constitution, freedom of the press and speech, and other constitutional guarantees of human rights."

The Hammon information will contain a list of suggested witnesses to

Plymouth, Mass., May 8.—(AP)—A shocked Plymouth citizenry awoke today and found the famous rock—on which the pilgrims reputedly first set foot in the new world settlement in 1620—covered to its base with bright red paint.

When town officials—some of them descendants of the pilgrim colonists—recovered from the shock they mouthed imprecations on those who desecrated what to most Americans is a sacred historical shrine.

In their next breath they called out police to track down the vandals, and workmen to remove the paint.

Just a year and a week ago, red paint was found on the rock, and was blamed first on communists who were celebrating May day. But Philip Frankfeld, secretary of the communist party in Massachusetts, denied members of his party were guilty.

BRITISH POKER PLAYER'S WIFE ASKS POLICE AID

Los Angeles, Cal., May 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Lillian Clifton telephoned from her home in England today and asked police to hold her husband, Squire Harry T. Clifton, wealthy British landowner, who recently lost $150,000 in a poker game. Capt. F. H. Post told her, however, the police had no reason to detain the squire.

Mrs. Clifton then declared she would come to Hollywood by steamer and airplane. She intimated, Post said, that anything Los Angeles could do to help the squire save his money would be appreciated.

Last week Lew Brice, former stage dancer, who won the $150,000 from Clifton, signed releases of claims against two bank drafts which Clifton drew to cover his losses. Brice said he would leave the matter of payment up to Clifton's sportsmanship.

Windsor Castle "Air Raid" Shatters a Stable Window

LONDON, May 8.—A mock air raid on Windsor castle was carried out so realistically today that a window in the royal stables was shattered by a firecracker exploded to represent a bomb. Eton college also was "attacked" and scores of students simulated injuries or acted as messengers for the air raid precaution authorities who conducted the tests.

Giro Will Fly Mail to Roof of Postoffice

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

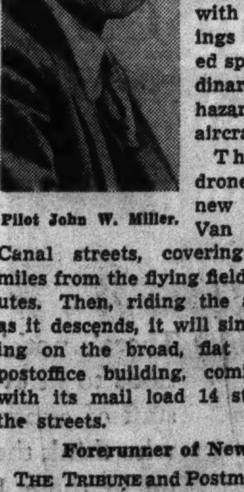
On next Sunday afternoon, May 15, an autogiro will lift off Chicago airport carrying a pouch of air mail fresh from the holds of a transcontinental airliner. The wingless, rotor-borne craft will head for the loop area with its tall buildings and restricted spaces that ordinarily represent hazards for all aircraft.



Pilot John W. Miller.

The giro will drone toward the new postoffice at Van Buren and Canal streets, covering the eight miles from the flying field in five minutes. Then, riding the air currents as it descends, it will sink to a landing on the broad, flat roof of the postoffice building, coming to rest with its mail load 14 stories above the streets.

Forerunner of New Day.

THE TRIBUNE and Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen today extend invitations to the citizens of Chicagoland to witness this flight. It promises to be an epochal event, the forerunner of a day when air mail really will be transmitted wholly by air—a day when the relatively slow moving motor cars that now carry most of the world's sky letters from central concentration points to the fields where their air journeys begin, are superseded.

The flight will open national air mail week—May 15 to 21—in Chicago. It will be made through the courtesy of the postoffice department and W. Wallace Kellett, president of the Kellett Autogiro corporation of Philadelphia, Pa. It will be a demonstration to prove the feasibility of an air mail shuttle and pickup service with giros.

The shuttle experiment is an effort to cut the time for transportation of mail from the flying field to Chicago postoffice from 40 minutes by motor truck to 5 minutes by plane.

The Kellett autogiro to be used in the demonstration is of the latest type designed for and delivered to the army air corps. It has no wings, being sustained by three rotor blades which whirl in a horizontal plane around a pylon from which the body of the craft is suspended.

An autogiro was chosen for the experiment because it is capable of virtually vertical descents at rates of speed slower than a parachute. The plane can alight with its landing wheel brakes locked so that its forward run is limited to a skid of a few feet.

No Run Before Takeoff.

The Kellett machine was chosen particularly because it is able to take off by jumping directly into the air without a run to gain flying speed.

Pilot John W. Miller, test flyer for the Kellett company who conducted the flights which resulted in the sale of the plane to the air corps for liaison and observation work with ground troops, particularly tank and cavalry units, will be at the controls.

After landing on the roof with his mail load Pilot Miller will deliver the pouch to Postmaster Kruetgen, who will in turn hand over a new pouch with outgoing air mail, originating in Chicago, to be flown back to the airport. Actual flying time for the round trip will be 10 minutes against 80 minutes as a minimum for the department's motor trucks.

MINISTER EXHIBITS KEEN FEELING ABOUT WAR AND ITS TERRORS

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 8.—(AP)—The Rev. Herbert Morgan's sermon on the evils of war today ended with the minister, himself, a casualty. Holding aloft a bayonet, he said: "This, just like the gospel, is two-edged." At that he tripped on a rug and the bayonet passed through his left leg above the knee.

CHURCH CLEARS FISHING PASTOR WITH A CHEER

Springfield, Vt., May 8.—(AP)—A jovial Methodist congregation of 500 cheered approval tonight when their pastor was officially forgiven for "playing hookey" from church last Sunday to go fishing.

Then the chairman, a white haired high school principal named Robert Millett, challenged the church members to tell what they were doing last Sunday when Larrowe was fishing. Laughter resounded when several admitted they had—gone fishing.

The church's thirty-eight trustees, most of them elderly and serious-faced, then retired to consider the case, and returned in a few minutes with a 37 to 1 vote in favor of the pastor.

Long Leader in Political and Legal Circles

Samuel A. Ettelson, prominent Chicago attorney and former corporation counsel for the city, died at 1 o'clock this morning in Michael Reese hospital. He was 64 years old.

Samuel A. Ettelson.

His death came less than a week after he entered the hospital for a gall bladder operation. The operation was performed Tuesday by Dr. Alfred A. Straus. For a time Mr. Ettelson appeared to be improving, but a sudden relapse occurred last night from which he failed to recover. His family was at the bedside at the end.

Mr. Ettelson's death was attributed to the fact that he waited too long in seeking relief from an ailment which affected both the liver and gall bladder.

COLORFUL CAREER

Samuel Adams Ettelson was one of the most successful practicing attorneys in Chicago during the last forty years. In this time he was city corporation counsel for a total of twelve years—the longest period any individual has served as Chicago's chief law officer, and for seventeen years he represented the 3d senatorial district in the state legislature.

Mr. Ettelson's terms as corporation counsel were stormy ones—he was in almost constant conflict with other members of a former Republican mayor's cabinet and he warred with political factions. But his shrewdness as a lawyer won many battles for him and his urbanity was never disturbed.

Born in 1874.

Mr. Ettelson was born in Chicago on Nov. 19, 1874, the son of Benjamin and Flora Philipson Ettelson. His father was a native of Poland and his mother was born in Germany. Young Ettelson received his early education at the Brown grammar school and the West Division High school. He entered Harvard university in 1893. He was given law degrees from the Chicago college of law and Lake Forest university in 1897 and the same year was admitted to the bar.

He practiced law alone until 1906 when he became a member of the firm of Schuyler, Jamieson, and Ettelson. The other two partners were the late Daniel J. Schuyler, Daniel Schuyler Jr., former Judge Egbert J. Jamieson, and Charles Weinfeld. On the death of the elder Schuyler and the retirement of Judge Jamieson, the firm was reorganized under the name of Schuyler, Ettelson & Weinfeld. It specialized in corporation work and repre-

DOCTORS MEET THIS MORNING TO DECIDE FATE

Take Responsibility from Parents.

Ten Chicago medical specialists accepted invitations last night to serve in the council which will decide this morning on the fate of Helaine Judith Colan, 5 weeks old, sufferer from a dread cancerous disease. From them will come the verdict of whether to operate on the infant, and thus possibly save her life at the cost of her eyesight, or to do nothing and allow the malady to bring certain death.

The ten specialists assumed the responsibility for choosing between these alternatives as a professional duty, transferred to them by the agonized parents of the baby girl after a dramatic five hour conference with other members of the family Saturday night. At the insistence of Helaine's mother, Mrs. Estelle Colan, three rabbis will be present at the specialists' meeting.

Meet at 10 O'Clock.

The deliberations will begin at 10 o'clock this morning in the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue, near the Garfield Park Community hospital where Helaine is confined. The physicians probably will make a preliminary examination of the infant at the hospital before they go into session.

She is suffering from glioma of the retina, an eye tumor which spreads from the retina to the brain. The infection already has claimed the sight of her left eye and the right eye is threatened.

Dr. Cutter to Be Chairman.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the Northwestern medical school, will be chairman of the life-death jury. Five of the nine medical men who have been named to serve with Dr. Cutter are eye specialists. They are:

DR. MAURICE H. COTTLE of the Illinois Masonic hospital.

DR. SANFORD GIFFORD of the faculty of the Northwestern university medical school.

DR. MAX N. KULVIN of the Hines Memorial hospital.

DR. EDWARD V. L. BROWN of the Billings Memorial hospital.

DR. ROBERT H. GOOD of the Garfield Park hospital, who is already familiar with the case.

The two brain specialists are:

DR. THEODORE T. STONE of the Northwestern medical school.

DR. CASSIUS C. ROGERS of the Garfield Park hospital, who was one of the first to suggest the calling of a committee.

DR. PAUL SCHMITT, pathologist at the Garfield Park hospital, also will take part in the consultation.

DR. HAROLD N. WAIT of the Garfield Park hospital will be in the council as an X-ray specialist.

Doctors Comment on Case.

Drs. Rogers, Good, and Stone indicated last night that they believe all efforts should be made to save the baby's life.

"I am not yet informed of the circumstances," Dr. Stone said, "and am not qualified to say what treatment should be given the infant's eyes, but if there is any indication of intracranial pressure or other brain symptoms I should advise an exploratory operation. If this is not considered necessary I would recommend deep-ray therapy if there is a possibility that the disease might respond to it."

Dr. Brown said that he had examined Helaine last week and at that time declared there should be an attempt to save her, but he would make no statement as to his present recommendation.

Three Rabbis Named.

Three rabbis yesterday accepted invitations to attend. They are Rabbi A. E. Abramowitz of Congregation B'nai Israel, of which Helaine's maternal grandfather, Dr. Morris Hershman, is a former president; Rabbi Saul Silber, head of the Chicago Hebrew Theological college, and Rabbi Samuel Cohen, executive director of the United Synagogues of America now in session at the Morrison hotel.

The procedure to be followed at the meeting today was outlined yesterday by Samuel A. Hoffman, attorney and spokesman for the family. He spent the day in his office at 160 North La Salle street with Dr. Hershman and his two sons, Seymour and Victor, and made the telephone calls which brought the acceptance of the specialists and rabbis to participate in the case.

When the meeting opens there will be present, in addition to the specialists and rabbis, the child's father, Dr. Herman Colan; Dr. Hershman, his sons, and Attorney Hoffman.

Dr. Hershman will relate all details of the case and Dr. Colan will give his family history. Then the specialists and rabbis will go into private session. The rabbis will not take part in the medical discussion, however.

When the specialists reach their decision on what course to pursue they will submit it to the three rabbis, whose consent will probably be no more than a formality to satisfy Mrs. Colan.

The family and the others interested will then be informed. They have all agreed to abide by the decision.

Mother Near Collapse.

The details of the family conference, which broke up at 2 a. m. yesterday, were told yesterday by Attorney Hoffman. It was held at the home of a friend of the Colans, Mrs. Colan remaining in bed in an adjoining room. She was nervous and near collapse yesterday. She knows that her baby is critically ill, but has not been told that it is more than an isolated eye ailment, and does not realize that a cancerous growth is present and is encroaching on the infant's brain.

For these reasons, Attorney Hoffman said, the words cancer and brain specialist were not used in her hearing. As her husband and others of the family conversed softly, Mrs. Colan cried out from time to time: "My baby must be saved. I'll give her my eyes."

Mrs. Colan's mother, Mrs. Hershman, vacillated during the conference, uncertain as to which alternative should be taken. When it was finally decided to let a medical counsel have the last word, Mrs. Hershman agreed and accompanied the others when they went to the next room to tell Mrs. Colan.

Baby Free from Pain.

The baby's mother regained her composure temporarily and also signified her agreement, but attached the condition that the rabbis must be present at the deliberations.

Baby Helaine, as yet free from pain from her affliction, according to hospital attendants, spent another quiet day yesterday, sleeping most of the time and waking for regular feedings. The gravity of her condition is increasing, however, and if an operation is decided upon, it will be performed as soon as possible. Each hour that passes without a definite plan for procedure lessens her chances for recovery—if an attempt to save her is to be made.

Several brain specialists are of the opinion that chances are against her recovery from surgery for the removal of both of her eyes, but say it may save her life. Another slim hope is that super-voltage X-ray treatments might preserve both the baby's life and the sight of her right eye.

One Eye Must Be Removed.

At any rate, if it is decided to try to save Helaine's life, the left eye must be removed immediately. Then the X-ray therapy could be attempted.

This therapy would probably be given at the Garfield Park hospital.

Helaine has been at the Garfield Park hospital since last week when she was taken there from her home at 549 Brompton place.

Dr. Hershman said that hundreds of letters and telegrams have been received from persons all over the country expressing sympathy, and some suggesting types of medication and surgery. Dr. Hershman said he was grateful for this public interest and plans to answer all the letters.

Restaurant Patron Beaten When He Resists Robbers

Joseph Abrams, 1533 Millard avenue, a plumber, was beaten by two bandits last night when he resisted their efforts to rob him and twenty-four other patrons in a restaurant at 2457 Division street. Abrams attacked one of the bandits. Both men beat him on the head with the butts of their revolvers until the handles of the guns broke from their frames. They fled after firing a shot that went wild. Abrams was taken to the Lutheran Deaconess hospital.

Two Men and a Boy Killed in Colorado Plane Crash

Ordway, Colo., May 8.—(AP)—Two men and a boy were killed tonight in an airplane crash. The victims, all of Ordway, were: Jo Williams, 35 years old, owner and pilot of the plane; Ross Malone, 35, and Delane O'Dell, 13 years old.

Council to Decide Baby's Fate

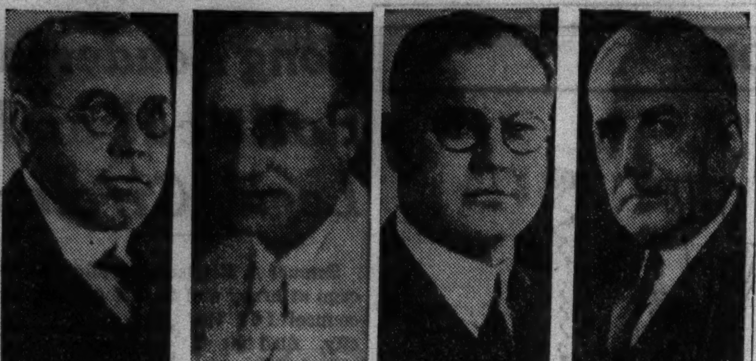
Ten Chicago medical specialists this morning will decide whether to operate on Helaine Judith Colan, 5 weeks old, and thus possibly save her life at the cost of her eyesight, or to do nothing and allow the malady to bring certain death. Three rabbis will also attend. Below are six of the medical specialists and the three rabbis.

Rabbi Saul Silber. Rabbi A. E. Abramowitz. Rabbi Samuel Cohen.



Dr. Robert H. Good. Dr. Max N. Kulvin. Dr. Cassius C. Rogers. Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Dr. Edward V. L. Brown. Dr. Maurice H. Cottle.

Names Suspect in $9,400 Sweepstakes Prize Holdup

Jerry Siegel, 3215 Grenshaw street, was identified at the detective bureau showup yesterday by Alfred Nadler of Detroit, Mich., as one of the two men who on April 25 robbed him of $9,400, part of a $25,000 sweepstakes prize he had won.

POLICE TO QUIZ UNION HEADS ON MILK VANDALISM

Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's office will question officials of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union today in connection with the vandalism accompanying Chicago's milk price war. Officials of the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., cut rate company at 1334 South Peoria street, also have been invited to the state's attorney's office for questioning.

Two Meadowmoor trucks loaded with milk were wrecked on west side streets Friday and Saturday. A police guard has been placed around the company plant and squads were ordered to watch milk trucks. No violence was reported yesterday.

Ray Bryant, union trustee, said his organization had no connection with the violence. He asserted that stores selling Meadowmoor milk are being picketed because company employés are not unionized. Company officials said its employés were refused membership in the union.

2 LITTLE VICTIMS OF GLIOMA—ONE LIVES; ONE EXISTS

Examples in Debate Over Operation.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Robert Marshall is 28 months old. A laughing, blithe child, he leads a life of strenuous activity although he has one glass eye. Robert Edmark is 22 months old, sweet tempered and of a fine physique, but almost totally blind. And one small hand gouges constantly at his aching eyes.

These two baby boys are both victims of glioma of the retina, dread cancerous malady now threatening the life of little Helaine Colan.

In the Marshall child, however, the disease apparently has been checked through an operation removing one eye. In the other, the disease is coursing ahead, despite a series of X-ray treatments, and his parents are resigned to the fact that he cannot live more than three years.

Take Opposite Sides.

The parents of the two Roberts have taken opposite sides in the Colan baby controversy, each pointing to their child as a vivid illustration.

"Operate immediately," say the parents of Robert Marshall.

"Let nature take its course," urge the parents of Robert Edmark, looking at their stumbling, joyless son.

Robert Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marshall, 7347 Vincennes avenue. His father is a confectioner. His vision seemed good at birth, but when a year old he became fretful and querulous. When the family doctor noticed a cloudiness in one eye, specialists were called in. Dr. John W. Stanton diagnosed it as glioma and recommended immediate operation.

"We didn't hesitate," Mr. Marshall said. "We rushed him to the hospital that same day. Two days later he was home again. He hasn't been ill a day since, plays with other children and," pointing to the yard where Robert raced madly about on his tricycle, a thatch of yellow hair falling across his blue eyes, one of glass, the other real, "he is very active."

"It is a great comfort to know we could stop it in time," Mrs. Marshall spoke up. "I think the Colans should not delay too long."

Both Eyes Affected.

Robert Edmark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Edmark, 3901 North St. Louis avenue. He was born two months prematurely and weighed only three pounds. Thus when his blue eyes seemed oblivious to sight, emotion or light, his parents at first thought it a result of his premature birth; that it would disappear in time.

"We would burn matches before his eyes, and there would be no reaction," recalled young Mr. Edmark, an insurance broker. "Then we took him to the doctor, and he thought the baby had cataracts. Finally they diagnosed the trouble as glioma."

Both eyes were affected, but both Mr. and Mrs. Edmark refused to permit their removal. Under the supervision of Dr. Max Bernauer at County hospital, 32 X-ray treatments then were given in an effort to check the disease.

Treatments too Painful.

"But we stopped the treatments," Mrs. Edmark said. "They were too painful. We can't see that they did any good. He seemed to be in worse pain than before. The X-ray was more or less an experiment.

"He's very strong," she continued, looking at her blond Robert in scarlet sweater and blue knit shorts as he climbed monkey-fashion into his highchair, "and he's a good baby. He eats an awful lot. But he holds his eyes all the time, and every once in a while he shudders.

"The doctors say he can live from three to five years. They've done all they can for him, and we wouldn't let them take his eyes out. The doctor said then my decision was wise. What would happen to him if I were not here to take care of him? Nobody wants anybody that is a burden.

"If the Colans could see my baby—how he stumbles and falls——"

"They'd let nature take its course, too," Mr. Edmark quietly finished for her.

"Yes," she nodded.

Many Announce Plans to Wed in June.

The solemn caps and gowns of commencement week will be replaced by frothy white bridal costumes in the wardrobe of some thirty co-eds at the University of Chicago and Northwestern university.

Most of the thirty have announced plans for June weddings, immediately after their graduation. Several will be brides in September. Two girls, sorority sisters at the Delta Delta Delta house at Northwestern, were married and left school several weeks ago. They are Mrs. John McNeilly of Alberta, Canada, the former Lila Muelhoefer, 411 Fullerton avenue, and Mrs. Donald Probasco of Charleston, W. Va., who was Edith Jenkins, 2438 Greenleaf avenue.

To Wed in Summer.

Among the other Northwestern summer wedding announcements are those of Miss Frances Kershner, Clinton, Ia., who will marry Robert E. Bickelhaupt, an auto dealer of Clinton; Miss Isabel Frank, Dayton, O., and Don Vandenberg, 4026 Keystone avenue, her classmate in the school of music; Miss Miriam Broullette, 2204 Sherman avenue, Evanston, who will sail for Ireland in June to marry Raymond Campbell, young Belfast broker.

D., to Robert Fesler, Evanston; Miss Adrienne Sinko, 1139 North Oak Park avenue, a junior, to Howard Nielson, Chicago; Miss Betty Cleland, 2233 Orrington avenue, Evanston, a sophomore, to Dr. Thomas Throckmorton, Des Moines; Miss Lillian Janda, 1831 South Clarence avenue, Berwyn, a graduate student, to Richard Fort, Berwyn, medical student.

University of Chicago students who have announced their engagements are Miss Hildegard Breihan, Topeka, Kas., to Forest Richardson, graduate student from Kansas City; Miss Miriam Parkinson, 7819 Kingston avenue, to French Peterson, 4549 Lake Park avenue; Miss Mary Lou Price, 5642 Dorchester avenue, to William Morse of Evanston, a University of Illinois student.

Additional Brides-to-Be.

At Northwestern university a survey of sorority houses disclosed fifteen additional prospective brides, although their fiancés were not identified.

Five girls from the Delta Gamma house will be married—Miss Ruth Coale, 607 Orchard lane, Winnetka; Miss June Benedict, 1404 Jarvis avenue; Miss Marian Collester, Spencer, Ia.; Miss Catherine Vogel, Indianapolis, and Miss Helen Cook, 105 East Maple avenue, Hinsdale. Three from the Kappa Alpha Theta house—Miss Sally Newton, 1734 Asbury avenue, Evanston; Miss Mary Lou Shaw, 6826 Crandon avenue, Chicago, and Miss Dorothy Day, 1356 Madison Park, Chicago—will be married.

Among members of Alpha Epsilon Phi Miss Helen Flanzer, 7830 Essex avenue; Miss Edith Shapiro, 41 North Central avenue; Miss Shirley Goldsmith, Cincinnati, O., and Miss Beverly J. Shapiro, Kansas City, Mo., will become housewives.

Two Pi Beta Phi girls—Mildred Jane Evans, Denver, Colo., and Miss Helena Rayl, Decatur, Ill.—have planned their weddings.

Bogus Relief Doctor Robs State Old Age Pensioner

Barney Watson, 79 years old, a former civil engineer now receiving a state old age pension, opened the door of his room in the Le Rue hotel, 175 North Clark street, in response to a knock last night. A man carrying a little satchel stepped in and announced he was a relief doctor sent to make an examination. He sent Watson into another room to undress, and when Watson emerged the visitor was gone, as were Watson's hat, watch, and $3 in cash.

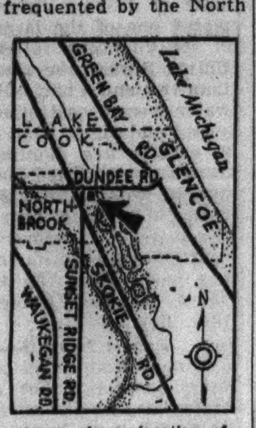
STABBED BY ROBBER.

Edward Hirth, 34 years old, 810 North Dearborn street, was stabbed in the chest last night when he resisted a robber in an alley near the Aurora and Elgin railroad station, Jackson boulevard and Franklin street. He was robbed of 90 cents.

FLAMES DESTROY THE EVERGLADES, GAMBLING HOUSE

Big Crowd Watches North Shore Resort Burn.

The Everglades Country club, gambling resort frequented by the North Shore social set, and one of the most colorful establishments in the Chicago area, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. It was the second time in four months that fire attacked the club, which is located at Dundee and Sunset Ridge roads, east of Skokie boulevard and west of Glencoe. On Jan. 13 the gambling casino and its elaborate equipment was consumed by fire.



Arrow shows location of Everglades Country club.

Yesterday's blaze broke out about 1:45 p. m. Like the previous fire, defective wiring was blamed by firemen from Northbrook, Winnetka, Glencoe, and Highland Park, who sought unsuccessfully to check the flames as they swept rapidly througn the frame structure.

Passing motorists and residents in the western part of Glencoe flocked to watch the burning building. They caused a minor trafic tieup in busy Skokie boulevard until county highway police arrived.

Money and Some Furniture Saved.

Several of the fifty club employés were in the kitchen when smoke began pouring from the front part of the building. They aided George Turner, manager, in carrying out a few pieces of furniture and the money which was waiting for a play from the usual Sunday night crowd.

Fred Coones, 34 years old, 722 Elm street, Winnetka, one of the employés, was burned about the face when he and several others rushed to the attic to try to extinguish the blaze. The loss was estimated at $3,500 for the building and $30,000 for the casino equipment.

The beautiful inlaid gaming tables, the rich oriental rugs which carpeted the casino, the tapestried draperies, and the overstuffed chairs—all went up in smoke.

The loss in the gambling rooms included two large roulette tables, which had been crowded two deep on Saturday night, three long dice tables, five tables for poker, black-jack tables, and the chuck-a-luck equipment.

Also lost was one of the most extensive group of wall boards, tables, machinery, and other equipment used every afternoon to accommodate the race track betters. The horse betting accommodations were considered the most extensive in this part of the country.

Two Cocktail Lounges Burn.

In addition to the gambling rooms, the club also lost a heavy investment in the two cocktail lounges.

Amateur photographers among the spectators who tried to snap pictures of the burning casino were dealt with harshly by club employés. At least a dozen candid cameras were smashed.

William [Big Bill] Johnson, reputed owner of the club, has had bad luck since its start. Open only a short time late last summer, it was closed in the fall by State's Attorney Courtney. When it burned in January, the club had only been open ten days. This time the luck was a little better; the casino had been running for more than a month.

Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's staf said that as far as his office knew there had been no gambling at the Everglades Country club since the prosecutor took action against it last year. He said he would make an investigation and that Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash would work with him and would question employés of the club.

80,000 CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF POLISH REPUBLIC

More than 80,000 Polish Americans assembled yesterday afternoon in Humboldt park to celebrate the 147th anniversary of the founding of a republican constitution in Poland. The ceremonies climaxed a parade of more than 25,000 persons, including 75 uniformed groups.

Among the speakers were Mayor Kelly, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Chief Justice Paul Farthing of the Illinois Supreme court, and John Romaszkiewicz, president of the Polish National alliance, which sponsored the celebration.

Eight hundred attended the constitution day banquet last night at the Palmer house, where State's Attorney Courtney was the chief speaker.

ANOTHER WOMAN CLAIMS RADIUM POISON DAMAGES

Mrs. Romilda Delaney Bierman, 35, of Peru, Ill., who worked for the Radium Dial company from 1921 to 1924, yesterday signed a petition to the Illinois industrial commission asking $6,750 cash and $300 a year for life in compensation from the company after a committee of physicians informed her that she had radium poisoning. The petition will be filed today.

Mrs. Bierman thus became, according to Attorney Leonard J. Grosman, a member of the society of living dead, 16 women who have been crippled as a result of painting watch dials for the company, which several years ago moved its plant from Ottawa, Ill., to New York.

DEMAND PROBE BY GRAND JURY IN PRESS RAID

Citizens Are Outraged at Dictator Tactics.

be brought before the grand jurors. Among them is Printer Ewing. With it will be filed an attested copy of the formal statement made last Sunday morning by Ewing, describing the press raid. This reads:

"April 30, 1938—At 3:30 p. m. On this date Noel W. Swayze, chief of police, city of Vincennes; James Harlow, patrolman badge No. 1, and Jeff Thomas, patrolman badge No. 6, came into the office of Walter A. Ewing, 705 Main street, Vincennes, Ind., and over the protest of Walter A. Ewing did forcibly and with firearms enter his production department, where Walter A. Ewing was having produced official ballots for the primary election May 3, 1938.

Printer Describes Protests.

"In so doing they violated the state laws of Indiana, over the protests of Walter A. Ewing, and, passing a posted entrance, with force and intimidation and without any authority of law, they removed from his press certain type which contained statements which were principally clippings from the Vincennes Post and the Vincennes Sun Commercial and took the same from the premises.

"All this procedure was taken illegally without the reading of any official documents or search warants and over the protests of Walter A. Ewing, co-owner and general manager."

The confiscated type was in the form used in printing a campaign circular by the "machine busters." Kimmel says the circular was false and scurrilous and exposed him to contempt, ridicule, and obloquy, as prohibited in a section of the corrupt practices act.

Lawyers say the method employed by Kimmel in raiding the shop—with police flourishing firearms, taking away the type, and terrorizing the plant—was far outside the law and not contemplated by the statute.

Citizens Assail Raid.

One stock comment among Vincennes folk is that Kimmel, in exasperation, apparently lost his head and gave Vincennes a taste of totalitarian government and the muzzling of freedom of the printed word.

Kimmel contends the circular was criminal libel and that the police had as much a right to stop it as if it were a crime.

Printer Ewing, whose shop depends largely upon contracts for public printing, signed an apology and an agreement that the case was to be dropped. His lawyer appeared before Mayor Kimmel, who by virtue of his office also is judge of the city court, and the case between the mayor and the printer was dropped. The move for grand jury action comes from citizens who are resentful of the attack on the freedom of the press.

Beaten Up, Says Distributor.

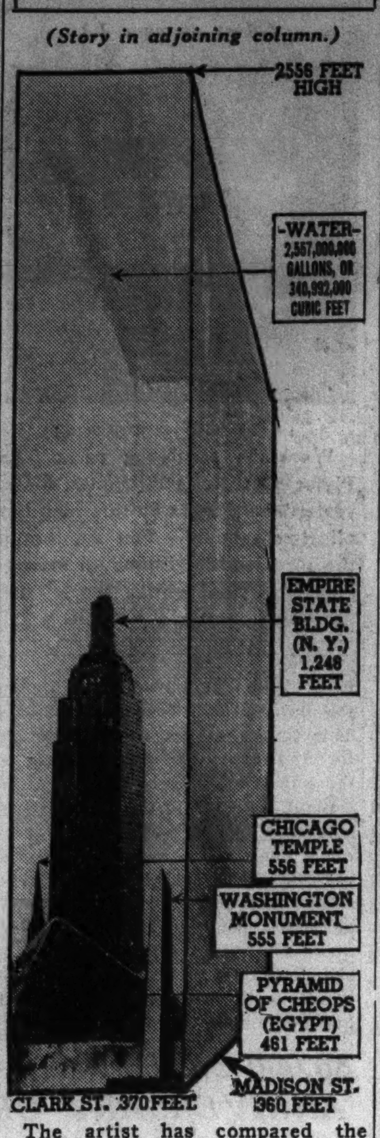
In the information to be filed by Dr. Hammon tomorrow will be included an affidavit about Melvin Ferguson, who with Paul Massey was arrested for distributing the circulars. They are licensed handbill distributors. Ferguson said he was beaten up by the police after his arrest. He and Massey are under $1,000 bond, and their cases come up tomorrow afternoon before a special judge to be picked by the lawyers.

Reports today were that their cases probably would be dismissed.

The four city employés suspended in the purge, as some view the mayor's action, are prepared to fight to hold their positions. They are Policemen George Flack and Willard Mickey, and Firemen Louis Robbins and Hercules Hebert.

Mine Pumped Dry

(Story in adjoining column.)



The artist has compared the amount of water pumped from a coal mine near Harrisburg, Ill., in the last five months with other bulky objects. The water would reach a height of 2,556 feet in the block bounded by Clark, Madison, Dearborn, and Monroe streets.

STATE PUMPS FLOOD WATERS FROM BIG MINE

Removes 2½ Billion Gallons in Five Months.

Harrisburg, Ill., May 8.—(AP)—The state of Illinois virtually has completed one of the largest operations of its kind ever attempted in the United States—the removal of more than two and a half billion gallons of water from a coal mine.

Day and night, from Dec. 2 to May 2, exactly five months, three state owned pumps lifted about 12,000 gallons of water a minute from the Sahara No. 3 mine, near here. When the water was removed ventilating fans were turned on to blow poisonous gases from the tunnels where about 300 miners formerly earned their livelihood.

Expect Many Rock Falls.

Mine officials made a brief preliminary inspection but did not penetrate far into the underground tunnels. They made no announcement of their findings. When the mine might be reopened has not been announced. It was believed the water had loosened supports and caused many falls of rock and coal.

It was in January, 1937, that the flood waters which devastated the entire Ohio river valley inundated most of Harrisburg and poured down the 243 foot shaft of the Sahara mine.

Faced with a severe problem, the mine operators asked the state to purchase pumps and remove the water.

Other Mines Abandoned.

Removing the flood water from a mine was something new. Ordinarily when a mine fills with water it is abandoned. Even when water seeped into a mine at Braidwood, Ill., decades ago, trapping more than sixty men, the shaft was sealed and the water filled mine remained their tomb.

Finally the legislature and Gov. Henry Horner agreed to use $50,000 of a $500,000 flood relief appropriation for the Sahara project. Three huge pumps were purchased.

ECONOMIC HELP PLEDGED WORLD BY ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—A message from President Roosevelt, who is returning to the capital from a vacation at sea, was read today by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in an international broadcast on economic coöperation in the Americas.

Apparently referring to his administration's program of reciprocal tarif reductions, Mr. Roosevelt declared: "The United States is pledged to a course of international economic cooperation and will spare no effort in loyally continuing on that course.

"There is a general and growing realization that no nation or group of nations can enjoy prosperity and plenty when a large part of the world is in economic distress."

Inland Press Convention to Hear Ex-Gov. Landon

The Inland Daily Press association announced yesterday that former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican presidential nominee of 1936, would address its spring convention in Chicago on May 17. His topic will be "Tolerance and Freedom." The association is composed of editors, owners and publishers of 295 daily newspapers in twenty north central states and two Canadian provinces.

Bowling Alley Pin Boy Seized on Rape Charge

Edgar Rouff, 34 years old, 3947 North Pulaski road, a bowling alley pin boy, was arrested by Albany Park police as the alleged rapist of a woman 72 years old. She is Mrs. Anna Fredin, 3819 North Harding avenue. The alleged attack took place April 26. Mrs. Fredin, who is now in a serious condition at the home of a son, Harold Fredin, at 2306 Iowa street, identified Rouff. He denied the charge.

Found Shot to Death in Basement of His Home

Michael J. Warren, 44 years old, 1108 North Waller avenue, a mechanic, was found shot to death, presumably by his own hand, in the basement of his home last night. A revolver lay near his body. His brother, Dr. John Warren, 1825 North Rutherford avenue, told police he had been despondent over separation from his wife seven years ago.

ERROR COSTS HIS LIFE.

U. S. TO STORE 62,500 TONS OF SILVER IN WEST POINT VAULT

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Uncle Sam will start lugging 62,500 tons of silver to West Point, N. Y., starting June 1, the treasury disclosed today. On the army reservation where the military academy is situated the last concrete is being poured into a one story warehouse for the white metal.

Behind its foot-thick walls are 23 cubicles which will hold 2,000,000,000 ounces of silver—approximately all the silver bullion and coin owned by the treasury. By act of congress, that much silver is worth $1.29 an cunce or $2,580,000,000, but its world market value is only 43 cents an ounce or $860,000,000. The silver now is stored mainly at the government's mints at San Francisco, Denver, and Philadelphia.

The gold vaults recently built at Fort Knox, Ky., hold more than $5,000,000,000 worth of gold.

CONVICT MOTHER BEGS SON TO TELL MURDER DETAILS

Seattle, Wash., May 8.—(AP)—A bizarre Mother's day appeal went out today from Mrs. Mary Eleanor Smith, a convict, to her son, De Castro Earl Mayer, a life termer, begging him to disclose all the details of the supposed murder ten years ago of James Eugene Bassett, a naval ensign.

Although both mother and son confessed last week that they killed Bassett for robbery, Mayer sought to bargain with prosecutors over the still undisclosed body of the victim.

"Never, never regret this step, Earl, my dear," Mrs. Smith wrote, "I fully believe you are not responsible and I will take my stand with you. My heart bleeds for poor Mrs. Bassett."

Because Bassett's dismembered body could not be found, it was legally impossible to prosecute Mrs. Mayer and her son for murder. Therefore they were tried and convicted of possessing property stolen from the young naval officer. Mrs. Smith was about to be freed, having completed her term, when she confessed the murder.

VALHALLA OPENS GATES TO PANDA SU-LIN ON JUNE 1

Place of Honor Prepared in Field Museum.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Su-Lin, the prankish panda, will take her place in the Valhalla of animals June 1.

On that date, according to Clifford Gregg, director of the Field museum, children who by thousands learned to ask for "panda" instead of "teddy bear" in the brief 18 months during which Su-Lin became an international celebrity, will find their friend in the main hall of the museum. At first she will occupy a case of honor all to herself. Later she will be moved to a family group with some distant cousins.

Her admirers will find the roguish, bearlike creature in her most characteristic pose, sitting as she often did in her favorite arm chair at the Broofield zoo. Only, as Wilfred H. Osgood, chief curator of zoölogy at the museum, put it, "this being a museum, she'll be perched on a hollow log instead of a chair."

Studies Action Photographs.

C. J. Albrecht, museum taxidermist, is using photographs and moving pictures he took of Su-Lin to make sure the clay manikin he is modeling will be lifelike. Over the mold will go Su-Lin's hide, tanned until it is almost as supple as a woman's glove.

Su-Lin's head is turned to one side and she seems on the point of moving. "If she were just static, sitting back, looking right at you, the illusion of life would be lost," Mr. Albrecht explained. He is taking into account, too, the crook in her right ear and her slightly "pushed in" profile.

Meanwhile in another part of the museum anatomists are trying to pentrate the mystery that surrounds Su-Lin, the first of her species ever to be captured alive.

Nobody Knows Her History.

None knows just how old her family is, Dr. Osgood said. She is really a prehistoric survival, not a bear as most people think, but a sort of overgrown Asiatic raccoon. Su-Lin's teeth were twice as heavy as a grizzly bear's to enable her to eat the native bamboo of the western China highlands where she was born.

Su-Lin's cousins with whom she eventually will make her home are the tiny ring-tailed bassarisk of the Rockies, a squirrel like creature; the long tailed yellow cinkajou, which lives in the trees of Central and South America, the long nosed Mexican coati, and the true panda of Tibet and the Himalayas, the size of a fox, with a reddish body, black legs, long bushy tail, its face a cross between a fox and a cat."

S. A. ETTELSON, LONG A LEADING LAWYER, IS DEAD

Elected to State Senate.

Running on the Republican ticket, Mr. Ettelson was elected to the state senate from the 3d district in 1906 and was reëlected three times, serving until 1923. One of the important laws which he advocated was that providing for the regulation of private banks. For years he was chairman of the insurance committee of the state senate.

In 1915 a former Republican mayor appointed Mr. Ettelson as city corporation counsel, succeeding Richard Folsom, who had resigned.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the city board of local improvements, clashed with Ettelson in 1922, accusing the corporation counsel of hampering building projects with resultant higher cost to the taxpayers, particularly through the payment of experts' fees. Ettelson contended he had the right to conduct all the city's legal business in the board of local improvements while Faherty demanded the right to name his own lawyers. The state Supreme court upheld Ettelson after a long and bitter fight in the lower courts.

Returns to Private Practice.

Ettelson resigned as corporation counsel in 1923 when William Dever became mayor. He engaged in private law practice until 1927, when he became corporation counsel again when the Republican mayor returned to office. Ettelson served until 1931, and then went back to his practice.

In 1933 he came into the limelight again when he attacked the good faith of the receiverships for the bankrupt Insull properties. He charged that Samuel Insull had framed the receiverships and was dominating the lawyers involved. Ettelson and Schuyler had broken by this time and Ettelson was bitter toward his former partner, who had been Insull's personal lawyer. Ettelson, representing holders of debentures in the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was successful in blocking confirmation by the federal court of two men elected as trustees for the company.

In recent years Ettelson was in a law partnership with his younger brother Leonard.

LEAGUE POWERS SEEK SCHEME TO DITCH ETHIOPIA

Plan Steps to Recognize Italy's Conquest.

GENEVA, May 8.—(AP)—Great Britain and France, confident of winning freedom for themselves and other league of nations members to recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, today prepared the next step of their "realistic" diplomacy—an effort to oust Haile Selassie, Ethiopia's emperor in exile.

Haile Selassie.

The right of the swarthy, bearded little negus [emperor] to be represented when the 101st session of the league council opens tomorrow will not be contested, British diplomats said.

However, both British and French legal experts, it was learned in league quarters, have consulted league authorities seeking a loophole in the covenant through which Selassie might be ejected from the league. The British and French were said to be drawing up plans in readiness for action in the league assembly which meets Sept. 5.

Presence a Bar to Italy.

So long as Ethiopia, even technically remains a member of the league through the representation of her vanquished emperor, France and Britain regard as impossible any chance of Italy associating herself with league action.

Both the British and the French indicated they expected little trouble on two other important questions before the council:

1. Switzerland's appeal to be relieved of the obligation to join other nations in any punitive measures the league might adopt to punish aggressors.

2. The Spanish government's proposal for league action to force Italy and Germany to withdraw both men and equipment from the rebel side in the civil war.

China's Course a Mystery.

China remained the unknown "X." Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, concerned by what might happen when the question of the Chinese-Japanese war crops up, had an exploratory conference with Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, ambassador to Paris and leading European representative of China.

The French said Switzerland's request would be granted in line with a general understanding that sanctions are no longer obligatory.

Government Spain's spokesman, Julio Alvarez del Vayo, will be told that the question of intervention in Spain is being handled by the London nonintervention committee and that the council will not interfere.

BOY KILLER WILL SEEK EARLY START ON PRISON TERM

Attorneys for Theodore Danielsen Jr., 16 years old, will ask Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court today to sign the necessary papers so that the boy can begin serving his fourteen year prison sentence for the murder of his mother.

Last month Judge Harrington found young Danielsen guilty of murder in a trial without a jury. The boy testified he stabbed her to death during a struggle in their home at 5316 Lieb avenue on March 3 when she scolded him.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA BUILDS FORTS ON AUSTRIAN BORDER

Chain of Pillboxes Manned by Machine Gunners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 8.—Czechoslovakia, suddenly faced by Germany on the Austrian frontier, is taking speedy measures to protect herself on this flank should war come. Though the Czechs had made elaborate preparations for defense along the border of Germany before Reichsfuehrer Hitler annexed his native land to Germany, they had not taken similar precautions at the gateway to the land of the blue Danube.

All that is changed now, however. Concrete pillboxes for machine gunners, about 100 yards apart and several lines deep, are appearing on the Austrian frontier. The pillboxes then disappear, because they are camouflaged to look like mounds of, perhaps, sugar beets.

Troops Quartered in Towns.

With talk of war keeping the chancelleries of Europe tense, fortifications are being strengthened all along the Czech side of the Czech-German border, but nowhere with the activity seen near Austria.

In the larger towns behind the new fortifications Czech soldiers are being quartered permanently in barracks, to insure that the defenses can be manned on short notice.

The changed defense problem for the Czech general staf caused by Hitler's seizure of Austria is apparent when it is considered that Czechoslovakia is especially vulnerable from Austria. Between Znojmo and Mikulov is a gap of about thirty miles in the chain of hills which afford a natural defense along much of the Czech-Austrian border.

Moravian Gateway an Entrance.

This Moravian gateway would be a logical entrance for an army seeking to penetrate Czechoslovakia, and perhaps snip off the western end of the country—Bohemia—in which most of the 3,250,000 German inhabitants of Czechoslovakia live.

The military importance of defending this gateway is increased by the fact that directly north of it, on Czechoslovakia's northern frontier, are other weak areas—also natural points for forcing an armed entry.

One is the valley of the Oder river. The other is near Nachod, to the west, a menace forced by the Glatz salient.

Observers who believe that war is not imminent cite the reports that few German troops are seen north of Vienna—north of the Danube river, in fact—in Austria.

German Flyers Present.

If a thrust into Czechoslovakia were planned in the near future through the Moravian gateway military preparations, and evidences of military forces, would be more in evidence there, they assert. One observer asserted the only extensive evidence of German preparations was the presence of quite a number of German military airmen at Horn.

The same condition does not exist near the vulnerable spots on the north, however. Here the Germans have concentrated permanent garrisons of troops. New barracks are in evidence at Neisse, and German artillery troops are training.

The Czechs, for their part, are constructing new fortifications at Nachod.

Czechs Guard Against German Invasion

Fearing a drive by Germany to pinch off the old provinces of Bohemia and Moravia from the rest of the nation, Czechoslovakia is strengthening the three weak spots along its frontiers, facing Germany and former Austria. The Czechs are massing troops near Nachod (1) at the head of the Glatz salient and in the Oder river valley (2). On the old Austrian border they are building pillboxes several lines deep. Especial attention is being paid a 30 mile gap (3) between Znojmo and Mikulov in the chain of hills which form a natural barrier on the south.

ARCHDUKE FELIX SOUGHT BY NAZIS FOR SILVER THEFT

Issue Warant Against Otto's Brother.

VIENNA, May 8.—(AP)—Austrian German authorities issued a warant today for the arrest of Archduke Felix of Hapsburg, younger brother of Archduke Otto, pretender to the nonexistent Austrian throne.

Archduke Felix, who is 20 years old, was accused of the theft of $900 worth of silverware and linen which the prosecutor charged he took as a cadet at the military academy at Wiener Neustadt when he fled Austria March 11.

Archduke Felix.

Archduke Otto.

Felix was believed to be staying with his mother, former Empress Zita, and Otto in Belgium. It was recalled that a warant was issued recently for Otto's arrest on a charge of high treason.

Called State Property.

The Vienna newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter said that the silverware was state property which had been loaned to the academy from the Vienna imperial palace depository for the archduke's temporary use.

The Hapsburg name has disappeared from the cover of the Vienna telephone directory. For many years an advertisment of the Hapsburg laundry—its name borrowed from an archduke who had been made an official of the concern—had appeared on the cover.

The new edition, just out, did not carry the old advertisment. Both the name and the management of the laundry had been changed.

One Archduke Is Happy.

At least one Hapsburg archduke seemed satisfied with the Nazi régime. Archduke Anton, husband of Princess Ileana of Rumania—King Carol's sister—was busy gardening today at his Castle Sonnberg. He is an expert farmer and mechanic.

Ileana, speaking for him, declared: "We are entirely happy here. Anton and I have been to Berlin lately where we had a splendid time."

GERMAN PRESS SILENT OVER ABANDONMENT OF TYROL BY HITLER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 8.—Not a single German paper today devoted a line to saying good-by or to sympathizing with the Germans of Italian South Tyrol who find themselves suddenly abandoned by their fatherland. The Tyroleans have been clamoring for union with Germany.

The statement of Reichsfuehrer Hitler in Rome Saturday night that the Alps constitute the natural Italian-German frontier condemns them to eternal exile—as their friends and relatives in Germany point out.

In striking contrast to this is the continued campaign against the alleged ill treatment of the Sudeten Germans by the Czechs.

The German press reported at length how Czechs at Trachatitz tore a Sudeten Nazi party pennant from a motorcycle belonging to an official of the Sudeten party, how three Czech soldiers in a village near Leitmeritz forced a German resident to haul down a swastika flag, and how stones were flung at a German owned inn in Olmuetz.

BRITISH WARSHIP PREVENTS ATTACK ON OIL TANKER

GIBRALTAR, May 8.—(AP)—The British destroyer Grafton today drove off two Spanish rebel armed trawlers attempting to attack the British tanker Refast, which formerly was the American Nantucket Chief. The Refast, which as the Nantucket Chief was captured and released early this year by the rebels, was bound for Valencia and Barcelona today when the trawlers gave chase. The rebel vessels dashed away when the Grafton appeared in answer to a radio call.

Protest Ruthless Action.

LONDON, May 8.—(AP)—Four hundred British merchant seamen today protested to the foreign office against "ruthless and absolutely deliberate" attacks on British shipping in Spanish waters and demanded the government "take immediate action" for protection.

A telegraphic protest was sent from Valencia by the masters of numerous British ships in Spanish ports. They asked that neutral zones be established in Spanish harbors for the loading and unloading of neutral vessels.

American Held at Gibraltar Believed Aviator for Spain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, May 8.—Herbert Searl, an American, was detained by police today as a stowaway from Valencia aboard the British steamer Celtic Star. Searl was believed to have been a plane pilot who fought with the Spanish government forces. The American consul is investigating the case. The Celtic Star also sent to a hospital two seamen who were wounded aboard ship during a recent bombing of Valencia.

STEAL TRUCK LOAD OF EGGS.

Thieves entered a warehouse at 5280 South Halsted street early yesterday and stole a truck loaded with 175 cases of eggs. C. V. Fowler, the owner, placed the loss at $948.

ROB NILES CENTER TAVERN.

As Max Schedlbauer was preparing to close his tavern at 5336 Lincoln avenue in Niles Center early yesterday three gunmen entered and took $50 from the till.

Jackie's Mother Weeps; No Mother's Day Card

Los Angeles, Cal., May 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Lillian Coogan Bernstein wept today because she said her son, Jackie Coogan, neglected to send her a Mother's day greeting. Jackie is suing his mother and his stepfather, Arthur L. Bernstein, for an accounting of his earnings as a child actor.

FRANCO PUSHES 'NOW OR NEVER' DRIVE IN SPAIN

Fights to Straighten Front East of Teruel.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], May 8.—(AP)—Border observers of the nearly 22 months old Spanish civil war today saw something of a "now or never" frenzy in the rebel offensive to straighten the eastern front and capture Castellon de la Plana and Valencia.

Gen. Miguel Aranda, chief of the operations under Generalissimo Franco, was ordered to wipe out a jutting mountain salient of the government's "milicianos" regardless of the cost and continuing rains.

Loyalists Strengthen Defenses.

The weather which had hampered rebel operations for days had given the astute loyalist generalissimo, Jose Miaja, an opportunity to strengthen and consolidate his defenses all along the zig-zag line facing the rebels from Teruel east to the Mediterranean.

Rebel capture by storm of the town of Portell yesterday walled up the third side of Miaja's principal salient, in the Canada mountains, which for weeks has jutted like a swollen thumb into the rebel line between Teruel and the Alcala de Chisvert sector on the coast. Alcala de Chisvert is less than thirty miles north northeast of Castellon and seventy miles from Valencia.

The capture of Portell left open only the southern side of the mountain sector for communications and supplies—or retreat by Miaja's men. Portell is ten miles southwest of Morella, which is a base for operations on the center of the front as well as for a heavy push along the coast toward Castellon and Valencia.

Italian Troops Attack.

Desperate rebel attacks on the north, east and west of the Sierra de la Canada threatened to render even its strong natural defenses untenable. While the captors of Portell prepared to close in westward, Galician and Italian troops pressed east from Villarroya de los Pinares and south from Villarluengo.

Paralleling these operations, a coastal column was reported breaking government defenses of the direct approach to Castellon. Rebel dispatches said the seaboard force had shoved about six miles south of Alcala de Chisvert and had reached the head of a broad barren plain, north northeast of Castellon, which is called Los Desiertos de las Palmas.

CATALONIA'S ENVOY TO BASQUES REPORTED EXECUTED BY REBELS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BARCELONA, Spain, May 8.—The Catalan government today was informed of the shooting in Burgos, the rebel capital, of Manuel Carrasco Formiguera, the head of the Catalan Catholic Agrarian party, who was sent as a Catalan emissary to the Basque country early last year.

While proceeding to Bilbao on the small steamer Galerna the ship was captured. All of Carrasco's fellow voyagers were executed long ago. The fact that Pope Pius and the Catalan cardinal had interceded for him with Generalissimo Francisco Franco, rebel leader, may have saved him for a time. As he faced the Burgos firing squad he cried:

"Assassins! Long live Catalonia!"

He was reported to have been executed on the same day the rebels first entered Catalonia. Catalans looked on this as a significant warning to them.

JAPANESE SMASH CHINESE FORCE MENACING REAR

Defeat Army of Guerrillas in Shanghai Zone.

SHANGHAI, May 8.—(AP)—Japanese military authorities today reported a smashing victory over a Chinese guerrilla force participating in an apparently coördinated effort to break Japan's hold on North China.

The Japanese said reinforcements crushed the Chinese guerrillas who had attempted to cut off Nantungchow, an important supply base for 10,000 Japanese fighters. The town is sixty miles north of Shanghai on the Yangtze river. Japanese said the victory relieved danger which had threatened a Japanese column moving north through Kiangsu province.

This column is aiming at the Lunghai railway from the south in an attempt to break the four month stalemate where the Japanese have failed to penetrate the Lunghai zone. The deadlock continued on the northern sections of the Tientsin-Pukow railway.

Two Provinces Rally to Chinese.

Chinese today received welcome news that Kweichow and Yunnan provinces, which heretofore were relatively indifferent to the war, had lined up their vast area and resources in support of the Chinese cause.

Foreign observers said Kweichow and Yunnan, in southwest China and with a combined population of at least 20,000,000, had started a great effort to pour men and munitions into the war against Japan.

The observers said 60,000 trained Yunnanese troops were heading northward toward the front lines ready for immediate combat duty.

Foreseeing a possible stoppage of trafic on the important Canton-Hankow railroad, over which flow munitions for the Chinese, the provinces have set armies of coolies to work to build a 750 mile emergency highway from the city of Yunnan to Chungking.

Munitions from Indo-China.

Traversing mountainous country, this highway "lifeline" could be used, if the occasion arose, for the transportation of munitions from India and French Indo-China into the Yangtze valley.

Munitions were said to be pouring over the Indo-China railway to the Chinese border where thousands of Chinese civilians take care of their transportation. Uncounted junks move along the nation's innumerable waterways bearing these war supplies to the Yangtze valley.

Menace South China Coast.

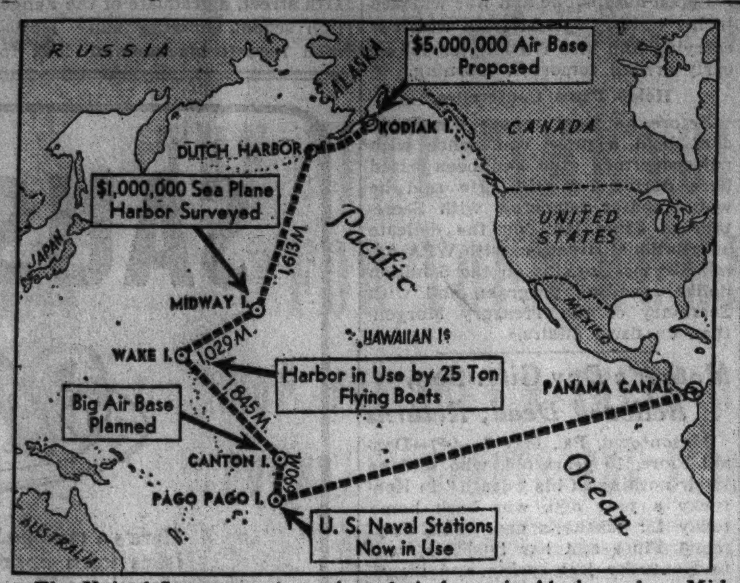
HONGKONG, May 8.—(AP)—Chinese reported today that Japanese naval forces had adopted more intensive harassing tactics along the South China coast since Vice Admiral Koshiro Oikawa took command April 30. He succeeded Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa as commander of the Japanese third fleet.

Two days ago a Japanese cruiser landed a force of marines on Ballast island, five miles southwest of Portuguese Macao in the delta of the Canton river, but later evacuated them under fire, after losing 20 men. On the same day 400 other marines were repulsed in an attempted landing near Swabue, about 60 miles northeast of Hongkong. Chinese reports said this force left 50 dead.

MISSING GIRL IS SOUGHT.

Miss Elsie Gustafson, 20 years old, 44 East Banks street, who disappeared after a quarrel with her father, Albin Gustafson, April 28, was being sought by the police yesterday.

Navy's Information Line in Pacific



The United States navy's projected air bases in Alaska and on Midway Island will be links in a 10,000 mile "information" line in the Pacific, according to well informed sources. The line will run from Kodiac Island and Dutch harbor southward through Midway, Wake, and Canton Islands and thence south and eastward to American Samoa and the Panama canal.

Scout Pacific

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—The navy's projected air bases in Alaska and on Midway Island will be lookout and signal stations on a 10,000 mile line of "information" in the Pacific, informed persons indicated today.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, recently disclosed to congress that the navy had mapped such a line "to obtain information from the enemy" in any Pacific conflict.

Belief was expressed in naval circles that the line would extend from Kodiak Island, Alaska, and Dutch Harbor, in the Eastern Aleutians, southward through Midway, Wake, and Canton Islands, and thence south and eastward to American Samoa and the Panama canal.

In the event of a Pacific war radio stations at these points and the navy's long range patrol planes would be able to report quickly any enemy movements, thus guiding an intercepting American fleet.

DIES WHILE VISITING FRIENDS.

Miss Cora Little, 49 years old, 3323 Washington boulevard, died of a heart attack yesterday while visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Rempe, at 1214 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park.

CHINESE SAILORS SIT ON JAP IRON ON SHIP IN U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., May 8.—[Special.]—Twenty Chinese sailors have possession of 2,100 tons of scrap iron aboard a ship in this port that the war lords of Japan have paid for and need acutely in Yokohama. But they can't touch the iron and they don't know just what they're going to do about it, if anything. It appears likely that the iron may eventually go to China for subsequent use against Japan.

The Chinese have eight days in which to decide what they want to do about the iron and, in the meantime, no outsider may claim title to it, being barred by an order of Federal Judge Harold Louderback, who granted a motion to that effect by attorneys for the Yokohama Specie bank.

Japs Say They Bought Vessel.

The tangle of claims for the ship and the $23,000 cargo arises from Japan's undeclared war against China. The ship is the Kwang Yuan, a former American ship that was sold last July to a Chinese company in Cheefoo, but not delivered to the Chinese port. Shortly after the Japanese captured Cheefoo agents for the Tokio government announced Japan had bought the ship and proceeded to load it with scrap iron here to be used for the manufacture of munitions.

When the ship was ready to clear for Yokohama American port authorities refused to allow clearance under Japanese command since the vessel still was of Chinese registry.

Unable to clear for home, Japanese officers in command of the Kwang Yuan dropped anchor and waited for consular agents to straighten out the tangle. Last month the Chinese crew of twenty chased the Japanese officers off the ship and declared they had seized the cargo for the Chinese government. They claimed a right to the cargo under the rules of international law governing expropriations of enemy property in war time. Then it became Japan's move.

Difficulty in Court.

But Japan is having difficulty in finding a legal basis for a battle for recovery of the ship in an American port. The United States is neutral and it is not easy to persuade American courts to intervene in scraps for possession of belligerents' ships.

Japan's right to the iron on which the freight has been prepaid is unquestioned, but how to get it back is another problem. The United States court, it was pointed out by Judge Louderback, has no authority to order a ship, seized for a foreign government, to return to port and discharge cargo. And so, it may be that Japan's scrap iron eventually will be wrought into shells by the Chinese to be shot at Japanese soldiers.

BUSINESS—AND PLEASURE

By CALEB

HAPPY IS the man whose vocation and avocation are one and the same. One of the interesting things about this business of ours is that those who follow it often do find both their work and their hobby here.

It would be difficult to define the qualities that particularly fit an individual to make a contribution in our business. There are here as many types of men and women as you might find in a like sized group anywhere. However, there does seem to be one quality most of us have in common: we like people.

Liking people in the sense we would convey is more than a passive thing. It is not to be expressed by detached observation from a grandstand seat. It begins probably in childhood, and at that early date evidences itself chiefly in looking at and wondering about people, with a sponge-like absorption of facts about them.

The second stage is reached when the individual begins to wonder why people act as they do—to investigate and ask questions. Somewhere along the line the typical embryo merchandiser develops a flair for selling—it may be almost any item, and is often outside the realm of retail store merchandising. Having once tasted the satisfaction of selling—of serving a customer and exactly filling a need, our typical merchandiser looks next for facilities with which he can most effectively multiply his success and his contacts with people.

Naturally, his eye turns to the department store—where the technique of gathering large numbers of articles to fill many and varied needs has been developed to a high degree. Having settled upon the department store for the site of his career, the now rapidly developing merchandiser chooses a particular one from among those available. Stores have personalities that attract certain types, just as people do. Usually the beginner chooses the one which best carries out his own ideas in merchandising.

Thus—having followed his hobby in choosing a career, and having chosen to join the store he most admires—the new merchandiser finds his vocation and his avocation in one and the same place. These circumstances, we feel confident, have much to do with the character of the service upon which friends and patrons from time to time find occasion to compliment us.

CAPITAL AWAITS NEW ROOSEVELT PROGRAM DRIVE

Legislative Picture More Favorable, Aids Say.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will return to Washington tomorrow from his marine holiday to find no change in the depression but a great improvement in his political fortunes.

The New Deal victory in the Florida primary, followed immediately by the melting of Democratic opposition to the Roosevelt bill for the political regulation of wages and hours of labor, has completely changed the legislative and political picture. With new confidence in success the President will resume drive for enactment of his legislative program.

Plans to Summon Leaders.

As soon as he returns Mr. Roosevelt will summon the Democratic leaders in congress to revise the program in the light of the new turn of events.

When the President departed ten days ago Democratic rebellion against his measures was rampant. The wage-hour bill appeared to be blocked in the house by Democratic opposition beyond all hope of extrication. The pump priming features of the 5 billion dollar spending and lending bill were endangered. There were Democratic predictions that no more New Deal legislation would be passed.

Now it is an entirely different picture that will meet the President's delighted gaze when he reaches Washington. The wage-hour bill is slated for passage by the house next week at the latest, with the prospect of enactment into law after adjustment of differences with the bill passed by the senate last summer. The 5 billion dollar pump priming bill is apparently assured of passage with only some earmarking of funds for expenditure in specified ways to which the administration does not seriously object.

Wonder How Far to Go.

The big question the President and his advisers will consider is how much farther it is deemed advisable to go in pressing for legislation that had been defeated or sidetracked before the recent turn of the tide in the President's favor. Among administration leaders, encouraged by the new outlook, there is even talk of resurrecting the bill clothing the President with dictatorial powers to reorganize the government, which as a result of a popular uprising was defeated by a handful of votes in the house a few weeks ago.

The change in the President's political fortunes is attributed by administration leaders to Democratic reaction to the Florida primary in which Senator Claude Pepper, a 100 per cent New Dealer who has supported the President on every vote, was overwhelmingly renominated over Congressman J. Mark Wilcox, who opposed Mr. Roosevelt on the bill to pack the Supreme court, the reorganization bill and the wage-hour bill. Pepper was specifically indorsed on behalf of his father by James Roosevelt. The primary was heralded by both sides as a test of Roosevelt sentiment.

Point to Townsend Votes.

Since the primary there have been numerous attempts to disparage the results. It was pointed out that federal relief funds were poured out extravagantly to aid Pepper, that not less than 10,000 persons were added to the relief rolls in consideration of votes for Pepper. It was pointed out that in a state populated so conspicuously by elderly immigrants from the north Pepper was the darling of the Townsendites, having indorsed without reservation their recovery prescription of old age pensions of $200 a month, while Wilcox had merely promised to do the right thing by the aged. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said he couldn't tell whether Mr. Roosevelt or Dr. Townsend had won the Florida primary.

It was also contended that geographical considerations accounted for the retention of Pepper who hails from north Florida. Had Wilcox, who comes from south Florida as does the other senator, Charles O. Andrews, been nominated north Florida would have been unrepresented.

Viewed as Indorsement.

Among the Democrats, however, there was no mistaking the overwhelming reaction that the result was an emphatic vindication of the President and his policies. Thus it was viewed as an indorsement of the wage-hour bill in the south which from the start has been the source of the greatest opposition to the measure because a minimum wage substantially higher than southern wages would remove the advantage which has enabled the south to attract the textile and other industries from the north. Also it was viewed as an indorsement of the 5 billion dollar pump priming bill.

The effect on the Democratic membership of congress was electric. No more spectacular rush for the band wagon ever has been witnessed than that of Democratic congressmen to sign the petition to discharge the rules committee from control of the wage-hour bill and bring it to the floor of the house for a vote. They were convinced, according to administration leaders, that the President was right when he said the people are overwhelmingly with him, and were hastening to put themselves right with their constituents.

Drop Filibuster Plans.

Some of the house Democrats, there was reason to believe, had swung to this eleventh hour support of the wage-hour bill in order to ingratiate themselves with the President while secretly relying upon the senate Democrats to bury the measure. It then transpired, however, that the Democratic opposition in the senate had modified its truculence of last summer. There would be no filibuster of the measure in the senate, it appeared, but an effort to obtain a compromise on wage differentials for the south which would maintain the industrial advantage of that section.

The apparent effectiveness of the pork barrel consideration in the Florida primary is being viewed with satisfaction by the administration leaders with their eyes glued to the Democratic primaries yet to be held and to the congressional elections in November. They are impressed anew with the sagacity of Vice President Garner's remark that "You can't beat 4 billion dollars."

Point to Funds Obtained.

Particularly emphasized in the Florida primary were the presentation of the allotments of federal funds to Florida procured by Senator Pepper and the argument that such special favors are obtainable only by a senator, who, like Senator Pepper, stands ace high with the President.

The same argument is being stressed in behalf of Senator Alben W. Barkley in the Kentucky primary and in other states in which the seat of an administration legislator is at stake. To this consideration more than to any other the Democratic leaders are looking for victory in the congressional elections.

SPECIAL SPEEDS PRESIDENT BACK TO CAPITAL CITY

Due This Morning After 3,000 Mile Cruise.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Presidential Special en route to Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was returning to the White House tonight after a nine day 3,000 mile cruise in the West Indies aboard the U. S. S. Philadelphia, London treaty cruiser, cheered by the news the house has moved to act on his legislation to put a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours.

The Philadelphia came up the historic harbor of Charleston, S. C., past Fort Sumter in the late afternoon. Mr. Roosevelt was on deck as the first cruiser to be built in his administration slid by the fortress.

President Waves Good-by.

When all was ready the President, tanned after his cruise, stepped over the rail. The crew, lining the rail, snapped a salute. A boatswain's pipe shrilled the Presidential pipe. At the flick of the baton of Lieut. Charles N. Benter, director of the Navy band, who made the cruise, the ship's band played "Auld Lang Syne" and the national anthem.

At the first chord of "The Star Spangled Banner," Mr. Roosevelt put his hat over his heart. With a farewell wave the President made his way down the ramp. He climbed into his open automobile and was whisked to his waiting special train which is carrying him into Washington for an early arrival tomorrow morning.

Holds Press Conference.

Before he went ashore the President held a press conference with newspapermen who had been based here during his trip. He said he would confer tomorrow with Secretary of State Hull on the delicate international situation, with WPA Administrator Hopkins on the 5 billion dollar spending program, and with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau on fiscal affairs.

A Home Conscious People Goes To Market

Nearly six thousand new citizens of the United States will be born within the present twenty-four hours.

Among them will be those born to life in apartment, flat, multi-family dwelling . . .

And others, to the happy birthright of life in a private, individual home!

Whether by heritage or environment, there are home conscious people everywhere. There are individual homes everywhere.

But,—far more of both are in Philadelphia than in any other place in all America!

Philadelphia—City of Homes—presents to the world the unusual drama of a vast metropolitan people, whose first interests are freedom, comfort, security of home life . . . home ownership . . . home improvements . . . conveniences for modern living.

Philadelphians go to market as the Nation's greatest home conscious people: for nine out of ten of their dwellings are individual, single-family homes! . . .

Within Philadelphia's city limits are more single-family homes (91.6% of all Philadelphia dwellings) than in all New York City and Buffalo combined; than in Chicago and St. Louis together; than in Detroit and Cleveland. More than in any of twenty-two states!† . . .

And so it is that advertising of things that add to single-family dwellings . . . of products for use in individual homes, is of more importance to the people in Philadelphia than in other great cities.

Modest dwelling to mansion, each Philadelphia individual home is an establishment—complete for independent family life!—

With its own heating plant, own laundry; its numerous appliances . . . its constant invitation to change and improvement!

Its family needs for food in variety . . . its greater use of household products of every description!

To Philadelphia's advantage as America's greatest market of individual homes, is added the economy of advertising in one newspaper at low cost.

For thirty-three consecutive years, The Evening Bulletin has led all Philadelphia daily newspapers. Each year of the past fifteen, The Bulletin's circulation has averaged more than half a million copies daily.

Only two other cities in America have newspapers with half a million or more daily circulation—and no newspaper in either of those two cities approaches The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin in years of leadership.

Edited as a careful home newspaper, The Bulletin is read in nearly every home. It reaches 78.9% of all Philadelphia families; 89% with incomes of $3,000 and more; 94% with incomes of $10,000 and over.*

The Bulletin's circulation, 517,086 average 1937, far exceeds that of any other Philadelphia daily newspaper, morning or evening. It is net paid . . . all the result of reading interest . . . all valuable to the advertiser! No prize, premium or subscriber contest has ever been used.

Market your product in Philadelphia. For speedy, profitable results in sales! Tell this great home conscious people about your product, by advertising in The Bulletin, the newspaper read in nearly every Philadelphia home. Consult your advertising agency.

PARTY TANGLES TO COME UP AT STATE MEETINGS

Democrats Face Possible Lack of Quorum.

BY PARKE BROWN.

John F. Tyrrell, G. O. P. State Chairman.

State central committees of both the major political parties, it was learned yesterday, may get into tangles with far reaching effects at the meetings they have scheduled at Springfield this week.

It is believed certain the Republican meeting tomorrow will develop a fight over the election of a chairman, one that may influence the conduct of the entire campaign for the November election. Officers of the state association of Republican county chairmen are taking such an active part in the affairs of the state committee that they may gain control of the fall campaign.

Democrats' Affairs in Muddle.

The Democratic committee situation is the more muddled of the two. Bruce A. Campbell, retiring chairman, did not call a meeting within thirty days of the primary of April 12 as is provided by the primary law. As a matter of legal protection, twelve downstate members of the new committee have called a meeting for Thursday. The question is whether the Cook county members will attend. Their combined voting power is greater than that of all the downstaters.

Certificates of election to members of the new committees cannot be issued until after the meeting of the state canvassing board at the capital tomorrow. Recognizing that fact in advance, Chairman Campbell announced at a conference in connection with the skeleton state convention on April 29 that he was forced to overlook the thirty day limit of the primary law and that he would call a meeting for May 19 or near that date.

Horner members agreed to that plan of operation but since then have become alarmed over the failure to comply with the primary law time requirement and have made use of another provision of the same statute authorizing 25 per cent of any central committee to call a special meeting of the committee.

Chairman Moore Backs Stiles.

Inquiry into the prospects for the Republican meeting tomorrow brought contradictory claims from the two sides in the contest over the chairmanship. A week ago all the indications were that the present chairman, John F. Tyrrell of Chicago, who succeeded to the vacancy left by the death of Perry B. McCullough, would be elected. Since that time there has been a high pressure campaign made for the election of A. K. Stiles, a new member of the committee from De Kalb county.

So far as can be learned the most active worker in behalf of Stiles has been Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Cook county central committee and chairman of the executive committee of the association of Republican county chairmen. Associated with him has been State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor of Aurora, chairman of the Kane county committee and chairman of the Association of Republican County Chairmen.

WPA APPROVES LAKE CALUMET DOCK PROJECT

Approval of a Works Progress administration project to fill in the earth for a dock at the south end of Lake Calumet was announced yesterday by H. K. Seltzer, Chicago WPA director. The project is part of a plan to build a 1,400 foot city barge terminal.

A Public Work administration appropriation bill including $600,000 for the construction of a steel dock, warehouses, and unloading equipment is now before congress. Dredging of the lake front in this area to admit ships using the Illinois waterway was completed last fall.

Three other new WPA projects were announced: Reconstruction and improvement of catch basins and manholes in the city's combined storm and sanitary systems; improving the banks of the Little Calumet river near Indiana avenue to prevent erosion, and reconditioning of the records of the Cook county Juvenile court.

JEWS TO DEBATE JEWISH-GENTILE INTERMARRIAGE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Two views about intermarriage of Jews and Christians will clash this morning as this subject is debated by youths and youth leaders of a thousand synagogues at the convention of the United Synagogue of America in the Morrison hotel.

One youth leader last night predicted that new demands of democracy require the obliteration of hoary traditional restraints, and that Jews and Christians should intermarry. Moreover, he asserted, the present crises in the world are breaking down nearly all barriers between Christianity and Judaism, and the defense of both democratic and religious ideals demands religious unity hitherto unknown. Intermarriage, he added, naturally accompanies this evolving unity.

These assertions were made by Samuel Brown of Brooklyn, N. Y., a consultant of the Young People's league. John Lewis, also of Brooklyn, N. Y., honorary president of that league, while not predicting conclusions to be reached in today's discussions, said intermarriage has not, in the main, worked out well and probably never will. This conservative view, Brown explained, is a holdover of ancient Orthodox legislation that required exclusion from family and synagogue any Jew who would marry a gentile unless the gentile embraced Orthodox Judaism.

The discussion of education for love and marriage scheduled yesterday was deferred until today.

LAWMAKER SAYS HE'LL YET SPEAK IN JERSEY CITY

Jersey City, N. J., May 8.—(AP)—Frustrated in an attempt to speak in this stronghold of Mayor Frank Hague, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, Representative Jerry O'Connell [D., Mont.] asserted today he would be back "in two weeks" to defy a ban on public speech making without a permit.

O'Connell declared as he boarded a train for Washington that "I'll be back to live down this fiasco—which wasn't our fault."

O'Connell and Representative John T. Bernard [F. L., Minn.] last night were persuaded not to attempt a defiance of the city ordinance after a four hour conference with officers of the international labor defense committee, which planned the anti-Hague rally.

ADOPT NEW RULES FOR HOSPITALS IN MATERNITY WARD

Seek to Reduce Mortality to Record Low.

Despite a steady reduction in the maternity death rate in Illinois in recent years Chicago medical authorities yesterday adopted new regulations for Chicago hospitals to cut the percentage of deaths still further.

The records, as compiled by Dr. A. C. Baxter, acting state public health director, show that in 1920 a total of 1,141 mothers died as the result of childbirth—a rate of 8.2 per 1,000—and that an annual reduction was achieved subsequently until in 1937 only 437 mothers, or 3.7 per 1,000, died—a reduction of more than 50 per cent.

The new rules to cut the death rate even more were announced by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. He predicted that the regulations, covering fifty-nine pages and approved by the Chicago Medical society, will tend to prevent gastro-intestinal infections and all infections of the newborn, and also tend to protect the mother and infants from many disasters other than those due to infectious agents. The rules are partly the result of the hospital outbreak of epidemic diarrhea last November, which caused the deaths of fourteen babies.

Maternity Divisions Segregated.

Under the rules maternity divisions of hospitals are required to be separated from other services. There must be isolation quarters for infected mothers and separate nursery for infectious infants. Delivery rooms must be separated from surgical and medical departments.

Visitors in the maternity division must be limited to two a day, in addition to the husband, and must be excluded during nursing periods. Children may not be admitted. Contact with babies is prohibited and visitors must not be permitted to sit on the beds.

An adequate, well trained personnel in the maternity division is specified and members must be limited strictly to obstetrical duties. They must be examined for infection before admission to service.

Detailed provisions for wearing sterile gowns, caps, and masks, and for scrubbing the hands, must be enforced for all maternity personnel by the hospitals. These are far more stringent than ever before. Similar safeguards must be applied to mothers whenever they are brought in contact with infants.

Strict Sanitation Rules.

All materials in the nursery, including bassinets, changing tables, bottles, and examining instruments are likewise subject to strict rules of sanitation. Compulsory standards of cleanliness are applied to floors and hallways.

Procedures for conducting the delivery room, and the handling of immature and premature infants are stipulated. Water supplies must be under constant control, with periodic examinations by the board of health. Pipes for sterile water must be freed from cross-connections with pipes for waste and drainage.

The regulations were agreed upon by a committee of eighteen representing various groups, including the Chicago Hospital council, Infant Welfare society, Catholic hospitals of the Chicago archdiocese, Chicago Pediatric society, and American College of Surgeons.

Five Young Men Seized for Robbery and Beating

Five young men were arrested yesterday on the complaint of Wallace Hinder, 2626 Orchard street, that he had been knocked down, beaten, and robbed of $2 as he walked in Wrightwood avenue near Burling street. Those seized are Edward Subacz, 1545 Montana street; Peter Sallas, 2418 North Halsted street; Robert Lubuich, 2450 Surrey court; Wilbur Uzdrowski, 2507 North Ashland avenue, and George Brown, 2254 Fremont street.

MALONE TO TAKE PARDON PLEA TO ROOSEVELT

William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission who is under sentence of two years for income tax fraud, said yesterday he would appeal personally to President Roosevelt for a pardon. He planned to leave for Washington today accompanied by his wife, son, and three grandchildren, and possibly a delegation of his neighbors.

Malone, former mayor of Park Ridge, was being aided by William McKee, another former mayor of the village, who as chairman of a Malone defense committee was obtaining signatures to a petition to be presented to the President. McKee said that Malone's only chance of evading prison is through presidential intervention.

THE HOODLUM ATTACK ON THE PRESS.

The men now in power in Washington have all too frequently protested their undying devotion to all kinds of freedom and particularly to the freedom of the press. They have done so in face of a growing record of infringements and attempted infringements of freedom.

In view of the latest outrage directed against the magazine, Rural Progress, it is scarcely conceivable that any further pretense of devotion to constitutional principles will be employed. The facts are too plain and their meaning is too plain to escape any one.

The outrage was presented in two chapters. In the first, a committee of hoodlum senators, supposed to be investigating lobbying, summoned the publisher to account to it for his stewardship. Evidently the magazine had irritated the majority party. Unlike many periodicals circulating in rural areas, this magazine has found cause for disapproving some of the administration's projects. It published an article by Senator Borah opposing the packing of the Supreme court and another by Congressman Pettengill which expressed his disapproval of planned scarcity as an agricultural policy.

Under the laws of the United States, as every one knows, a man has the right to publish anything he wishes to say, subject only to the general laws against such abuses as libel and obscenity. The freedom of the press, like freedom of speech and assembly, was written into the constitution precisely to protect all sorts of dissenters, but particularly those who wished to criticize the policies of their government. Experience had shown and continues to show that only by permitting the freest criticism in newspapers, magazines, and pamphlets of the men and party in office can freedom be preserved. Control of the press has accompanied the imposition of every one of the modern dictatorships.

When the hoodlum committee, headed by Senator Minton, summoned Mr. M. V. Reynolds of Chicago to answer to it for his publication, the committee was going far beyond any power possessed by congress under the constitution. If congress can summon to its bar publishers who disagree with it, little is left of the freedom of the press in this country. The Minton committee knew what it was doing and did it.

That was the first chapter; the second, covering the manner of the investigation, was equally shocking. The questions flung at Mr. Reynolds were plainly based on the assumption that access to the press is a privilege to be granted by some one in power and not a right possessed by every citizen. Mr. Reynolds was asked about the financial backing of his magazine as if some of the men and women who put up the money for the venture were not within their rights in so doing. Efforts were made to smear him, his editor, his contributors, his financial backers. The fact that his publication, which is less than four years old, is not yet making money was treated as if it were an extraordinary and shameful phenomenon instead of the normal, expectable experience in bringing out a new publication.

The committee, on the face of the record, cannot even pretend to have sought the facts about the magazine. Its editor was on hand, eager to testify; so eager, indeed, that on several occasions he asked to take the stand. His requests were denied as if he were the merest interloper, and he was ordered to keep silent.

The Rural Progress case does not stand alone. This administration almost from the start has sought to control the press. Through the mechanism of the NRA it tried to hornswoggle newspaper publishers into waiving their constitutional rights. Mr. Minton's predecessor as chairman of the lobby committee, now Mr. Justice Black, the ex-Kluxer, was responsible for the theft of the private telegrams of a newspaper publisher and was rebuked for his act by the courts. Denunciations of the press have been uttered repeatedly by the highest men in this administration. The National Labor Relations board coerced the publisher of a newspaper in St. Mary's, Pa., to reveal the authorship of an article; and the same agency issued a subpena for the editor of a trade paper which had exposed the conduct of the board's hearings.

Now the country has the Rural Progress outrage to add to the list. In face of this record, the conclusion cannot be avoided that the object of all these maneuvers is the destruction of the liberty of the press, the silencing of opposition and criticism, the intimidation of publishers and editors. Mr. Minton is one of the most loyal servants of the administration in congress. He was seriously considered as a candidate for the Supreme court. He hates a free press, as his speeches prove. He introduced a bill to censor the press and withdrew his bill only after a deluge of criticism. He is the man who was chosen deliberately to lead the hoodlum attack.

THE MONOPOLY QUESTION.

If there are monopolies in this country suppressing competition and exacting higher prices than would exist if there was competition, the purchasers of goods must have complained to the government. When complaint is made that one has been overcharged as a result of a monopoly, it is the duty of the department of justice to investigate and to proceed against those found to be operating the monopoly.

The fact that the department of justice is not proceeding comprehensively against monopolies has one of two possible explanations. Either the department of justice is betraying its duties, or monopoly conditions do not exist.

Let the public officials proceed in the courts against culprits in business wherever they are found. But public officials denouncing business for monopoly practices in speech and message have no other effect than to create general apprehension among the people and therefore to prolong the depression.

The public officials doing this intend to prolong the depression so that they may blame it upon business in order to bring on the dictatorship.

ABUSE OF JUSTICE.

Judge Robert J. Dunne has seen fit to release the youth Schmidt on probation. This action is a triumph of sentimentality over justice and public policy. If human life is cheap in this community this action will make it still cheaper.

The beneficiary of false sentiment in this instance went deliberately to lie in wait for and assault an elderly man. He asserted that he did not intend to kill him. He did intend to injure him. He did intend to use his superior physical strength on a man he knew could not defend himself. A youth of 19 is nearing the height of his physical power. A man at 59 is long past it and no match for any healthy youth. It takes a perverted morality that can condone Schmidt's conduct and find reasons for condoning it and freeing him from its just consequences. Schmidt cut a man off in midlife. He deprived a wife of her husband and a family of its head and support. He caused death and bitter sorrow and loss. He set an example of brutal force to the undisciplined youth who are committing a shocking proportion of the crimes of violence which horrify the nation. And this example is driven home by an act of official clemency which has no justification in the circumstances.

It is useless to protest the criminal violence which prevails in this country if responsible authority continues to evade its duty under the law and abuses its discretion at the expense of public security. The false humanitarianism which comes to the aid of every evildoer is a blight on the moral health of the community and any official who yields to it should be condemned. Justice may be tempered with mercy, but mercy should not be perverted to the betrayal of justice and the encouragement of the unmerciful. There was no mercy in Schmidt when he killed his victim. There is no mercy in leniency which fosters violence.

For destroying a life and plunging an innocent family into bitter sorrow and loss Schmidt escapes with a penalty hardly more severe than if he had broken a window. This abuse of justice and public policy is flagrant and without excuse.

ITALIAN VALOR.

Virginio Gayda, the Italian ball of fire who, though not a Horatius Flaccus to Mussolini's Augustus Caesar, is frequently his mouthpiece, wants to know if the United States is asking for war with Italy. The answer is no. We wouldn't know what to do with it. The glory wouldn't be worth a dime.

The Italians find offense in many remarks, official and semi-official, made here. It must be confessed that there is a habit in Washington of making faces through the picket fence and calling names from the back porch. Signor Gayda refers to Mr. Ickes, thereby apparently meaning also several other people. Mr. Ickes talks a great deal and no one seems to know what should be done about him, but he's never been as polecattish about other peoples as he has been about his own.

The Italians resent reflections upon their troops. We probably should be more sympathetic. There was a scaddlement, there were two of them, at Bull Run, and the confederates did some handsome running when the occasion prompted, as at Missionary Ridge. Any first class army may encounter an infelicity such as Caporetto. If it remains to fight another day all is well, or as nearly so as may be reasonably expected.

Mr. Ernest Hemingway is offensive to Gayda, but there is no national responsibility there. The two writers may find a way of satisfying their personal honor without involving their countries. There would be many Americans who would not want to go to war for Mr. Hemingway, and probably more who would not want to fight for Mr. Ickes.

Italy might do well not to fight the old wars too hard. When the Germans harken to the cry of their brothers beyond the Brenner and appear going through the pass the valor of the Italian troops will be a gift to history.

Editorial of the Day

THE BACKBONE OF POWER.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

There is a widespread belief that water power is rapidly supplanting coal as the chief source of power. This is shown to be erroneous in the preliminary statistics gathered by the international labor office at Geneva, where the world coal conference is to be convened next month. Coal is still the backbone of the world's power supply, and is giving way only slightly to water power.

The statistics for recent years show that coal and lignite provide 60.3 per cent of the world's power, as compared with 74.1 per cent in 1913. But water power has not gained what coal has lost. Indeed, water power has come up from 2.4 per cent in 1913 to only 6.6 per cent. Coal has lost place, relatively, but to other fuels rather than to water power.

Oil, of course, is coal's chief competitor. It provided 16.5 per cent of the world's energy output in 1935. Firewood, surprisingly enough, follows with nearly 13 per cent, and natural gas contributes 3.8 per cent.

Germany and Great Britain are far more dependent on coal than is the United States, for coal supplies nine-tenths of the energy output there. In America coal is used for about three-fifths of the total. Oil is a much greater factor in our national economy. The soviet union, just entering upon industrialization, is one of the few countries where coal is providing a larger percentage of power output each year.

The conclusion is inescapable that coal not only is, but will continue for many years to be, the principal source of energy for this country and others. How much can be done to stabilize the coal industry and better conditions for its workers through international action is problematical. But the long future of the industry justifies the attempt.

CONSOLING.

The judge was disturbed by a youth who kept moving about in the rear of the court.

"Young man," he exclaimed, "you are making a good deal of unnecessary noise. What are you doing?"

"I have lost my overcoat and am trying to find it."

"Well," said the judge, "people often lose whole suits in here without all that fuss."—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

A MAN WAS getting off a bus at 7th and Michigan when he noticed a woman's hat rolling down the street. He pursued it into the bushes in Grant park and retrieved it, and when he handed it to her she began fishing in her coin purse.

"Lady, don't be silly," he snapped. "I'm going to the Blackstone for lunch. Would you like to come along?"

WALKING THROUGH SPRING RAIN.

Cool, wet fingers touch my face,
As though the rain-nymphs would erase
The tracery time penciled there.
Drops entangle in my hair
And weight my lashes down with dew
As sweet as petals falling through
An April dusk. The faint perfumes
Of moistened earth and lilac blooms
Through shiny silver mist ascend
Like frankincense. The wet clouds blend
And drift—white gossamer in dye
Of mauve and palest lemon. I
Brush a hanging bough that flings
A crystal shower from hidden springs,
And watch fair Ceres beckon all
The breathless life that waits her call.

JAM SESSION—Motorman No. 1739 on the Clark street car has an auto mirror and clock attached to the window bar. But our favorite public servant is the motorman who uses a mousetrap to hold transfers. And our favorite "L" rider the silver-haired man who shells peas for dinner on the Wilson avenue express and throws the pods out the window. ¶A lad named Tom Collins works for the telephone company. ¶"Script dancers" is the name applied to the nervous neophytes waiting their turn to go on the air. ¶Harold McCormick will not look back—over his shoulder, we mean. ¶Eddy Duchin is a registered pharmacist. Highlight of last week—his rendition of "Stormy Weather" and of "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" at the Empire room.

MENTION OF THE TELEPHONE COMPANY employé named Tom Collins brings to mind the story of the man who clapped a fellow drinker on the back at a loop bar and when the other looked up in astonishment said: "O, I beg your pardon. I thought you were Tom Collins." "Your mistake," gagged the other, "I'm Old Manhattan."

Turn About.

A young man walking south on La Salle street accosted a pedestrian and asked for money. He didn't get it. A half block farther on another derelict stopped the would-be panhandler and asked for money. Wonder how the toucher felt as a touchee?

ONE OF CHICAGO'S NOTABLE CITIZENS is Felix Borowski, composer and musical authority, handsome, bearded, polished of manner and lively of mind. Mr. Borowski, who has written the program notes for the Chicago Symphony orchestra, has what is probably the best private musical library in town. A numerologist once told him that B flat was his lucky key, and he himself admits that his most successful compositions have been written in that key.

WHEN HE WAS A LITTLE LAD in London his parents decided that since he had an excellent soprano voice he should sing in a cathedral choir. St. Paul's was selected, and little Felix's uncle, the canon of Rochester, took him to see Sir John Stainer, organist of St. Paul's, for an audition. An aria from Handel was selected for his tryout. When the 10 year old lad arrived he found Sir John at the piano—and an older man sitting at a table writing. When he had concluded his aria the man at the table looked up. "What's that out of?" he asked. "Out of tune," replied Sir John crossly. And that, my little rabbits, is why Felix Borowski did not try further to be a singer.

Sentimental and Commercial Note.

A little white-haired woman in a black dress was sitting in a rocker just inside the entrance of a five and ten cent store on State street all last week knitting placidly. A sign over her head read "Remember Your Mother."

Recompense.

Full recompense I think it is
For braving winter's gloom
Just to live to see once more
A lilac bush in bloom!

Gustatory Notes.

June-fish from the Caribbean, delicate, delicious, served for breakfast in Jamaica after a helping of fresh fruit from the bowl of ice on the table. Little woodland strawberries in a silver bowl covered with heavy clotted cream, served in a fine old restaurant outside Paris. Golden slices of chilled papaya for breakfast in a Mexican garden. A dinner at the famous old Restaurant Royale at The Hague, an adventure in epicureanism from soup until the moment the little white bearded proprietor bowed us out. Duck and Burgundy in a little provincial inn overhanging the Seine at Duclair, where they served pressed duck before it became the specialty of La Tour d'Argent. Lobsters at Julia's in Brittany, with an accompanying view of the blue nets and dyed sails of the sardine fishers. Long fingers of delicious pineapple mellow from the Hawaiian sun at Honolulu. Omelets à la Madame Poulard at Mont St. Michel.

WE'VE EATEN the delicate meat from the tentacles of the octopus that is called squid, at Hawaiian native feasts. We've washed down savory Hungarian goulash, fiery with paprika, with beer in an old Hungarian restaurant in Budapest. We've eaten snails at Dijon, piping hot and delicately aromatic. We've eaten boned squab with guava jelly under the attentive eye of Gene at The Colony in New York, and fine food in many other famous places. In spite of all this, we're no epicure.

WHAT WE CONSIDER really a dish is a hot grilled cheese sandwich with Smithfield ham as served piping hot from the grill at a drug store counter on Michigan avenue, the cheese in a state between solidity and liquefaction. At the late Tiptop Inn, mecca of epicures, we enjoyed most an appetizer of black bread, butter, and horseradish. Our idea of a noble dish is a baked potato, dotted with sweet butter and covered with pepper freshly ground from a little mill. We prefer a good black bean soup to the best green turtle soup ever made. We like toasted buns and ham and eggs and baked beans and other lowly fare. We loathe epicurean sauces. Truly there is no disputing tastes.

A CASE OF NERVES.

THERE are relatively few persons to whom the physician can say safely, "Your trouble is wholly imaginary," or "You just have a case of nerves." In the first place, it is entirely possible that something may be wrong, that the medical man has jumped to conclusions on observing that the patient is embarrassed or apprehensive, with a tremor in his voice. As a result not even the semblance of an examination is conducted. All too often the physician, with an overweening pride of opinion, is sure that he is right. He may not permit the individual to tell his story, terminating the interview with, "Yes, yes, I know all about that," or "We need not go into that." What a discouraging outlook for one who needs help but is unable to obtain it!

Let us assume, for example, that some physical defect actually exists. An anemia, a food deficiency, the absorption of a toxin from a focus of infection may be overlooked, even though each presents signs obvious to the trained eye. The sufferer leaves the consulting room more bewildered, more disheartened, more discouraged than ever.

Not long ago a correspondent wrote as follows: "I know that I am ill; that there is something wrong. I have numerous digestive symptoms, feel desperately weak at times, and am tired constantly. I have visited three physicians in our city, no one of whom has permitted me to detail my entire history. Other than a tonic, no attempt at relief has been offered. Where can I go to obtain a thorough examination and thus satisfy myself that I have a correct diagnosis?"

It just happened that I knew an able man in her community and I suggested that she see him. At the same time I advised him of the impending visit and expressed the hope that he would take plenty of time to hear her story and to follow the consultation with a thorough inventory. Needless to say, the patient was greeted as one presenting the difficulties which could be relieved.

Fatigue was a prominent complaint and the physician was not at all surprised when he discovered a marked hypochromic anemia [too little red coloring matter in the blood].

Within six weeks, under appropriate doses of iron, the woman had made remarkable improvement. Furthermore, her digestive discomfort had disappeared. In fact, she was quite her normal self. In her letter of thanks she told me that she had almost come to the point where she believed herself that her symptoms were imaginary or, as she put it, "I began to think that I was losing my mind."

Let us suppose that no organic basis for her distress had been discovered. What then? Of necessity her symptoms would have been interpreted on the basis of a neurosis, of an escape from some unbearable circumstances which overshadowed her life so that she resorted to invalidism as an out.

Granting the existence of a neurosis with any one, instead of telling the patient bluntly, "Forget your maladies," the situation should be accepted as a challenge by any physician who desires to be helpful. An unsympathetic attitude on the part of the doctor only increases the misery of the victim. The wisest plan to pursue when a man says he has a pain is to accept his statement at face value, but it must be traced to either one or two sources—a neurosis or a real organic origin. If disease cannot be identified, psychotherapy will often point the way to recovery.

But some one may say, "O, well, these cases do not occur very often." Yes, but they do. Careful students of digestive ailments trace nearly 30 per cent to upset emotions and more than one-fifth of all the admissions to the medical wards of a well known eastern hospital come about from such causes.

CURE WILL TAKE TIME.

M. D. writes: My niece has congenital syphilis. Is there any cure now?

REPLY.

You do not state the age of the girl. Usually symptoms of congenital syphilis are manifest in early infancy. Treatment is much the same as for the acquired form and should not be delayed. Cure is possible, but it will take time and persistence.

WON'T AFFECT WEIGHT.

Miss C. writes: I am interested in finding out whether the juice of a lemon taken after meals is harmful to the heart. Also is lemon juice helpful in reducing?

REPLY.

Lemon juice at any time exerts no effect upon the heart. Citric acid is converted into an alkali. It will neither take off nor add weight.

AFFECTS ONLY TIDES.

H. S. writes: Has the full moon any effect on certain persons?

REPLY.

Not on people—only on the tides.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Chicago, May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother passed away three years ago, leaving a will and named my sister executrix. She owned a home which is to be sold and divided among seven children after her funeral expenses and perpetual care of cemetery lot is paid. This sister and I are to receive $500 for nursing my mother through her illness.

1. Can I demand my $500 now, even if the home is not sold at the present time?

2. Are we supposed to receive a statement of what is done with the rent as she collects it, as we do not know what becomes of it or have received no part of it?

1. Of course you can demand in the sense that you can go through the motions of asking for your money. If there is no money on hand other than what will be produced by sale of the real estate, then obviously you cannot expect to be paid until the sale.

2. The executrix does not necessarily have anything to do with the real estate. Her powers depend on whether collection of the rents is necessary to pay debts and on whether the will gives her power to collect the rents. If neither of these factors is present, the only authority would be authority from the heirs. We do not have enough facts before us to advise you to advantage.

WEED OUT "GOLD BRICKERS."

Oak Park, May 3.—As a veteran who served in France and who is again a private in that vast army of taxpayers shouldering an ever increasing load as the years roll by, I am beginning to wonder just how long and how burdensome the march is going to be. Especially I am wondering, twenty years after the armistice, if in this vast army on relief there aren't many gold brickers who could work but won't because they want to ride in the truck while their comrades walk and carry their equipment. And what is the remedy?

At least a partial remedy would be to issue "rations in kind." Good, plain food of the type the boys were fed in France to those who need relief and cut down the cash disbursed to a minimum. And, too, the red tape should be eliminated and common sense substituted in the distribution of relief so that a worthy case could be immediately reinstated to the relief rolls after completion of a temporary job. But let us weed out the "gold brickers."

KENNETH C. HALL.

DEFENDS A MUSIC CRITIC.

Maywood, Ill., May 4.—In reading the letter by "A. A." in Tuesday's TRIBUNE objecting to Cecil Smith as a music critic, I feel I must come to the defense of one man who has the courage to speak the truth.

I have been studying and teaching music for the last fifteen years. At my debut recital some time ago Mr. Smith's criticism of me seemed at the time most cruel and unjust. However, I discovered to my surprise that he was 100 per cent correct. Then instead of becoming discouraged I went to work on the defects he pointed out and have, I believe, entirely eliminated them.

I attend many professional recitals and performances, and in reading Mr. Smith's comments afterward I can readily understand why certain people would hate him. It is because his comments are true and the truth is often most painful.

RESCUED FROM A PAWNBROKER.

Chicago, May 3.—Let's stop the pawnshop racket. I put a suit in pawn five months ago for $3. I went over to get it out yesterday and they wanted $4.50. Just think, folks, 50 per cent interest. I didn't pay. Instead I went over to State's Attorney Courtney's office. I was directed to a Miss M. C., who, I believe, is one of the most efficient workers I have met. She took my ticket and in ten minutes my interest rate dropped from 50 down to 3 per cent.

If our politicians were generally as efficient as this Miss M. C. we citizens of Chicago would be fortunate.

This is just a small matter to some people, but you figure it out and you'll find it runs into thousands of dollars to the crooked pawnbroker who believes there's a sucker born every minute.

LAWRENCE GORMAN.

NOT THE SAME MRS. KOESTER.

Chicago, May 3.—Today in the Voice of the People there appears a letter, "WPA Men in a Ball Game," signed by Bess Koester. I have received several telephone calls regarding that letter and would like to have it known that I, Mrs. Bess M. Koester of 4730 Drexel boulevard, am not the author.

ELECTION AND THE GARBAGE.

Chicago, April 30.—Cannot some one please speed up this coming election a little this year so that we can have our alleys and garbage cans taken care of before the hot summer months roll in? It is a pity to live in a city.

CHESTER E. PREDEY.

FROM A BRITISH COUSIN.

Chicago, May 2.—If the writer signing herself "Crass American" and who speaks about "British impudence" will refer again to the source of her information, she will note that Whistler's "supreme artistry" was at least recognized by the British before it was recognized by his own countrymen, who regarded him merely as a clown. I quote: "It was the difference between this attitude of Britons and the attitude of Americans that made him content to remain away from his own country."

In any case, why drag up something that happened fifty years ago? Has "Crass American" only just heard about it? [The same may be said of her statements regarding English lectures in the pioneer days.] She distorts the facts when she says:

"Not long ago English theaters advertised:

"'You may safely bring your children here as no American voices will be heard . . .'"

The article states that this happened six years ago, and at only one theater.

In fairness one must add that if it happened at all it was inexcusable, because no people on earth speak so badly as the uneducated English!

By the way, speaking of insults, who gets more insult and abuse than England receives almost daily in THE TRIBUNE features and editorials? Like the letter of "Crass American" they are not even fair, but prejudiced, bitter, and vindictive. Can you be fair enough to publish this?

"A BRITISH-AMERICAN."

WANTS MARIAN ANDERSON IN OPERA.

Chicago, May 2.—Reading the prospectus of the 1938 Chicago City Opera season in yesterday's TRIBUNE, I wondered why the opera company cannot hire that great colored coloratura contralto, Marian Anderson. I call her the female Chaliapin on account of her remarkable range and volume. I think she is the greatest contralto since Schumann-Heink in her prime. If her color is against her why not lighten her up with some preparation? I have heard all the great ones in the last thirty years, but she thrilled me the most last Saturday at the Auditorium. Here's hoping we can hear her in opera.

HARRY R. STERNHEIM.

SHE HAS A PROBLEM.

Chicago, May 4.—I am a girl of 11 who loves to ride a bicycle, but where can I ride? There is an ordinance against riding on the sidewalk. When you ride in the street you are in danger of being hit by a car. It also makes the drivers nervous.

If you disobey the ordinance and ride on the sidewalk, even if you are very careful and only blow your horn when it is necessary, the people holler and call you a nuisance [providing you aren't chased off the sidewalk by a policeman]. What can I do?

A BICYCLIST.

PRAISED FOR COURTESY.

Chicago, May 2.—Anent Doris Myers' blast on the "Rudeness of Ticket Sellers" at theater box offices I feel it is only fair to call attention, by contrast, to the courtesy and coöperation which one always receives when purchasing tickets for Golden Gloves or other events at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

A. W. WILBER.

HELIUM TO GERMANY? YES.

Chicago, May 4.—James F. Porter in his statement in the Voice of the People on May 3 about helium is not acquainted enough with dirigibles to give any advice.

The secretaries of war, navy, and state, and the President approved of the measure to sell helium to Germany for their Zeppelins. I want to inform Mr. Porter that it is impossible to use dirigibles in wartime any more as these big balloons would be shot to the ground by our fast pursuit planes in no time. I would suggest that the government build Zeppelins in our country for traveling and mail transport. By doing so the Zeppelin company and the helium concerns would give employment to thousands of idle workmen and mechanics.

PETER LINNERT.

HELIUM TO GERMANY? NO.

Chicago, May 3.—I agree with Mr. James F. Porter regarding the sale of helium gas to Germany.

The danger of German Zeppelins flying over here is apparent, particularly in view of the fact that the Germans have built some hundred Zeps in the last 30 years and therefore would be able to send thousands of them over here in the next war. They might even be used to deliver the American munitions that are being used in Spain and China.

The only item on which I disagree with Mr. Porter is: Not anybody else's but our interest is superior to all others.

FRED STORM.

PROSPERITY DROPS IN.

Chicago, May 4.—How do you do, folks. May I come into your parlor and sit by the fireplace? Thank you, thank you, so much. Who am I? Well, now, I should tell you, but I am not unknown in these regions, I am not a stranger to any of you. Surely you have seen me before, but have never paid any attention to me.

Yes, now you are getting it. Yes, I am prosperity. How long have I been wandering? Well, I do not know, for it has been so long. I have been lurking around corners, waiting for some one to find me and have not paid any attention to time. What is time anyway? It is just a marker to show we are living. What is time without happiness, joys, and love?

Well, I am getting away from my subject. Yes, I am prosperity. I triumph over depression when I am given the utensils to conquer the foe. What do I think of democracy? Well, I hate to say it, but I believe democracy is taking advantage of the loosened rein and is trotting to destruction. What? You oppose me? Well, I am not worried. It is not the first time. I have been opposed for many a century, and by greater powers. Ah, but I am boring you with my talk. Ah, yes, yes; I am right. You are frowning.

Your warm fire has taken the chill out of my bones, and now I am ready to continue my endless journey. Good night and thank you, kindly.

THE NEWSPAPER TO READ FOR Foreign News . . .

As growing tension throughout the world makes foreign news of increasing interest to Americans, the newspaper to read is the Chicago Tribune.

In the Tribune you get first hand accounts by a competent foreign news service which again and again has been the first to give readers the news of important happenings throughout the world.

1918, for instance, a member of the Tribune foreign staf, traveling by plane, was the first American newspaperman to enter Berlin after the armistice.

In 1919, the efforts of Tribune reporters in Europe enabled this newspaper to deliver to the United States senate the first copy of the Versailles peace treaty to be seen by that body.

1920. A Tribune staf member was the only newspaperman to accompany President Ebert of the German republic on the latter's return to Berlin after his flight to Stuttgart following the Kapp coup d'etat.

A member of the Tribune foreign staf enabled this newspaper to scoop the world with the first interview with Gen. Wrangel, "White" Russian leader.

At the invitation of Irish leaders, a Tribune foreign correspondent initiated the preliminary parleys which in 1921 led to negotiations resulting in the Anglo-Irish treaty and the establishment of the Irish Free State.

1921. A Tribune staf member, one of four correspondents sent to investigate the great famine in Russia, cabled the first eyewitness account of this calamity received in America.

1923. The first eyewitness account of the great Tokio earthquake was cabled by a Tribune staf member.

A Tribune foreign correspondent, captured with other passengers by Chinese bandits who derailed the Shanghai-Peiping express, succeeded in getting messages through to the Tribune which resulted in the rescue of all captives.

1925. The world got its first news of the death of President Ebert of the German republic from a Tribune correspondent.

1926. A member of the Tribune foreign staf scooped the world with his story of the fall of Wuchang, capital of Hupeh province, China.

1927. The first correspondent to get Lindbergh's own story of his flight across the Atlantic was a Tribune man.

1930. The only newspaper correspondent present at the coronation of Nadir Khan as king of Afghanistan was a member of the Tribune staf.

A Tribune correspondent scooped the world with his eyewitness account of the "coffee rebellion" in Sao Paulo.

1931. A Tribune correspondent scored a world scoop with an exclusive interview with Mahatma Gandhi as the latter was proceeding to England for his conference on Indian independence.

1932. Because of his truthful reports about the bombardment of Shanghai, a Tribune correspondent was forbidden access to the official Japanese communiques.

1933. The first eyewitness account in America of the war in the Gran Chaco was dispatched by a Tribune staf member.

1935. The Tribune correspondent at Rome was expelled from Italy because of his truthful reports concerning conditions in that country.

A member of the Tribune staf was the first American correspondent to arrive on the scene of action in Italy's invasion of Ethiopia.

1936. The first American correspondent to interview Gen. Franco was a Tribune man.

A member of the Tribune foreign staf was elected as the sole representative of the American press in the Royal Chapel at the obsequies of King George V.

The first photos ever made public of Japan's war machine in China were obtained by a Tribune man. Later reprinted in China, these photos caused a sensation in that country.

1937. In order to give readers a comprehensive picture of conditions throughout the world, a Tribune staf member began a round-the-world trip, largely by plane, sending back dispatches from more than two dozen countries, including the war fronts of China and Spain.

1938. A Tribune correspondent scooped the world with the first authentic information concerning the future plans of the duke and duchess of Windsor.

The Tribune is able to deliver superior news service to readers because it is organized to do so. It has the personnel, experience, and resources to get the news wherever it breaks.

Thus, when you want the real facts about what is happening throughout the world as soon as it happens, read the Chicago Tribune.

Play Yankee's Symphony First Time in Chicago

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Illinois Symphony orchestra began its fourth series of weekly Sunday afternoon concerts in the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon with a program that reached two climaxes of interest, in the first Chicago performance of Randall Thompson's Second symphony and in David Moll's excellent playing of the solo part of the Chausson "Poème" for violin and orchestra. The concert began with Cherubini's little heard overture to "Anacréon," and included two novelties in addition to the Thompson symphony—Louis Aubert's "Habanera" and Leos Janacek's "Lachian Dances."

The music of Randall Thompson, now a member of the University of California faculty at Berkeley, is unknown here, except for "Americana" and the "Odes of Horace," two choral cycles given a few seasons ago at the University of Chicago. A versatile musician, gifted both academically and creatively, he does not let the academic half of his personality blockade the creative half. The Second symphony, written in 1931, is appealing less for the very real intellectual command with which it is put together than for its nearness to the spontaneous popular tradition of American music. The slow movement and the finale particularly have their roots in the soil of authentic southern folk music. Both movements become almost colloquial at times, but are diverted from banality into honest eloquence by Mr. Thompson's unfailingly fastidious taste.

Other parts of the symphony are less good, particularly passages in the opening allegro movement and the scherzo which are borrowed from Gustav Holst, and a dead area in the trio of the scherzo where Schönberg's "Verklärte Nacht" comes briefly but irrelevantly to life.

Mr. Moll, one of the youngest violinists in the Chicago Symphony orchestra, delivered Chausson's fervent lyric rhapsody with urgent phrasing and warm beauty of tone. The simple sincerity of his musicianly performance won him many recalls to the stage.

Aubert's "Habanera" and the Czech dances by Janacek are works of minor significance, but in their separate ways bear the marks of good workmanship and are agreeable variants of the usual program formulae.

Throughout the afternoon the orchestra was at the peak of its form, and the conductor, Izler Solomon, at the peak of his. I wonder how many Chicagoans realize fully how wonderfully gifted Mr. Solomon really is.

SWEDISH GLEE CLUB

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The appearance at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon of the Chicago Swedish Glee club under Harry T. Carlson's direction was a unit of the country-wide celebration by the Swedish people of the United States of the three hundredth anniversary of their countrymen's first colonial venture in what is now the state of Delaware.

The program yesterday consisted almost entirely of Scandinavian art songs and folk music. Edna Swanson Ver Haar, guest soloist of the day, varied the northern coloring by a performance of "O Mio Fernando," from Donizetti's "La Favorita."

The glee club sings with precision and a reassuring sense of having more power in reserve then is usually required. These 49 men can sustain a chord where necessary without giving a listener that disturbing impression that breath supply is rapidly growing low.

The club's tone quality, in general, has a sternly beautiful quality. Speaking of sternness, one wonders whether a male glee club is capable of enough striking contrasts to provide the basis for a full length concert. The whole thing is a little too virile for most of us.

Giovanni Polifronio, resident violinist, played large works of Tartini, Paganini and Saint-Saëns and a miscellany of smaller things at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon. Because his own ear does not criticize constantly the music he is producing, Mr. Polifronio's playing is inaccurate in pitch and unbeautiful of tone.

Smart Sheers Ready to Wear on Warm Days

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The best looking black sheers any shopper ever yerned to buy have been unpacked for appreciative souls who are getting ready for warm weather. Since dark sheers, and that means navy, dark green, brown, and black, have become the accepted smart outfits for town wear, the demand for unusual models is great.

Simple things with snap and a fresh, crisp quality that will stay that way through the hottest day come in clever two piece models or the one piece dresses with a simulated two piece effect.

Black chiffons are tucked to make them smart and distinctive. Chiffons are also made with plaits all the way round skirts, and teamed with jackets made of rows of stitched silk against alternate rows of the sheer.

Marquisette, woven with a fine rib line that gives the effect of tucking, makes another short sleeved dress ideal for hot weather wear. Net, embroidered with scroll work in narrow braid, is another sheer idea for daytime wear, in one piece and two piece models. Brief bolero jackets are prime favorites when teamed with simple dresses that are practically sleeveless.

Net, organza, chiffon, and marquisette come in swankily tailored clothes as well as the more dress parade outfits. Dress parade costumes come with crushed belts of soft suede or velvet in unusual colors such as French cerise, aquamarine blue, old gold, and electric blue, and in powder pastels.

Most of the blacks are made over rustling black taffeta slips with flesh colored shoulder straps. Clinging underslips of soft crêpe are likewise plentiful in all the dark street shades as well as black.

Fashions from Art

The social service committee of St James' Episcopal church is giving a fashion show and tea at the Woman's Athletic club tomorrow afternoon at which one of the features of entertainment will illustrate the current trend of patterning fashions after the old masters. A slide, a copy of a 19th century painting, will be flashed upon a screen in the darkened ballroom, and when the lights come up again there will be a live model wearing a modern dress adapted from the one on the screen.

Another feature of the show will be a complete bridal party, including the mother of the bridegroom, usually the "forgotten woman" of every wedding, as well as the mother of the bride. Mrs. Clarence A. McCarthy and Mrs. George Wilson are cochairmen of the party. Miss Valeria Harris, daughter of Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, a member of the committee, and Miss Kay Goodman, Miss Betty Armour, Miss Mary Gardner, and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson Jr. will assist at the tea tables. Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Orville J. Taylor are in charge of tea.

G. B. Carpenter Weds Eastern Girl on June 20

BY JUDITH CASS.

MEMBERS of the Carpenter and Isham families are making plans to go east in June to attend the wedding of former Judge and Mrs. George A. Carpenter's son, George B. Carpenter, and Miss Beatrice Chard, which is taking place June 20 in Cazenovia, N. Y., the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Chard. The ceremony will take place in the afternoon in St. Peter's church, the Rev. Ivol Curtis officiating.

Miss Chard has asked her sister, Mrs. B. Franklin Manierre, the former Ethel Barclay Chard, and her cousin, Mrs. Alfred Lee Manierre Jr., the former Cornelia Cochrane Colt, to be her matrons of honor. Cornelia de Lancey Manierre will be her aunt's flower girl.

James W. Rogers Chosen for Best Man.

James W. Rogers will be best man for Mr. Carpenter, and ushering will be Fairbank Carpenter, John T. Rutter, Kinney Smith, Samuel G. Houghton of Boston, and Franklin and Alfred Manierre of New York.

Miss Chard, who is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sackett Moore Barclay, is descended from the well known Barclay, Schuyler, and Livingston families and counts among her ancestors the Rev. Henry Barclay, one of the early rectors of Trinity church, New York. Other ancestors were Gen. Philip Schuyler and Gen. John Cochrane of revolutionary times.

Mr. Carpenter, who is a member of the prominent Carpenter and Isham families—his mother is the former Miss Harriet Isham—is a nephew of Mrs. Arthur L. Farwell and of Hubbard Carpenter and of John Alden Carpenter. Before his retirement three years ago Judge Carpenter was a judge of the United States District court of northern Illinois.

Julie Walcott Engaged to F. A. de Peyster III.

Two interesting engagement announcements were made in Highland Park over the week-end, one at a tea Saturday and the other at a similar party yesterday, when Mr. and Mrs. Chester Howe Walcott announced their daughter Julie's engagement to Frederic A. De Peyster III., son of the Frederic A. De Peysters of Winnetka. At Saturday's tea Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Crafts Watson announced that their daughter, Margi Ann, is the fiancée of James Marvin Ewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cady Ewell of Ravinia.

The Walcotts' party was something of a housewarming as well as an announcement party, for they have lived in Winnetka for many years and just recently moved to 1 Brittany road in Highland Park. Miss Walcott, who has a sister, Mrs. Roderick McKenzie of Winnetka, went to Bennington college for one year and then spent a Good Morning!

Both Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas have had more outstanding pictures than "There's Always a Woman," but never, I venture to say, one in which you liked them better.

They are the Reardons, a battling, loving, irresponsible married pair on the order of Myrna Loy and William Powell in "The Thin Man." Their story is a comedy murder mystery.

"Why," William wants to know, "when I'm so smart about other things, did I go and marry a dumb cluck like you!" And Sally wonders the same, in reverse.

Said dumb cluck has persuaded her husband to give up his berth as assistant district attorney and start a detective agency of his own. Which agency is on eve of failing as picture opens. In fact it HAS failed . . . William goes back to the D. A.'s fold, but Sally insists on carrying on the Reardon agency by herself.

The gods are with her, for no sooner has the door slammed on William's disgusted back than the Fraser case drops right—in—her—lap. And from here on developments are hilarious, exciting, and mystifying.

A cast of hand picked players, headed by lovely Mary Astor, contributes exhilarating performances, and, with the exception of having allowed just a trifle too much horseplay, Director Hall turned out a job of megaphoning that he's entitled to be proud of. Dialog sparkles.

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS.

Elizabeth Sandal is shocked to find her son, Oliver, and her daughter, Dorothea, resent their father's will that unexpectedly left a fortune to her and did not mention them. Dorothea wants to have her own London flat. Oliver hopes to marry into wealth. Elizabeth goes off to Switzerland for a change and rest. En route she stops overnight in Paris where Andrew Leicester has just arrived on his way to England to see his children.

INSTALMENT VII.

GHOSTS WELL MET.

Elizabeth Sandal unpacked her case for the night, washed away the dust of the journey, and read the printed card inside the door announcing the price of the room, all with the irresolution of fatigue; then pulled herself together, caught up her handbag and gloves and went down.

The vestibule was empty, but as she approached the door Andrew Leicester came out of the office from his telephone call, in front of her, hesitated and stopped.

"I owe you a thousand apologies for rushing in on your arrival as I did," he said. "I have been away in the east for years, and it was so extraordinary to see your signature staring up at me from the desk like that. Having been present the first time you signed it, I lost my head I'm afraid."

"The first time?" she echoed, bewildered.

"In the vestry at Hedley," he explained. "I was a groom at your wedding, inadvertently however, and there is no earthly reason why you should remember me. I was staying with my cousins, the Dodsworths, and took Jim's place at the last moment when he broke his leg."

"But of course. How dreadful of me!" exclaimed Elizabeth. "I remember perfectly. Andrew we called you; but O dear, that's a lifetime ago. I haven't seen Hedley since my parents died, and Jim was killed in the war, and Mrs. Dodsworth died the year after I was married. . . . You do bring things back."

She was taken mercifully out of herself by this encounter, for he was part of a happier world, and for ten minutes they chatted of old friends and acquaintances, touching lightly on their own affairs. She had not known his wife whom he had lost fifteen years ago; he had seen Robert Sandal only at his wedding, but remembered hearing pleasant things about him, and sympathized with her loss. Like her he had a son and daughter, the former still at school and the girl nineteen.

"But I'm afraid you were going out," he said regretfully at last. "Don't say I am keeping you? If by some lucky chance you are free perhaps you would come and dine with me somewhere, Mrs. Sandal. It would be a charity."

"I am just here for the night and have only the clothes I stand up in. But you may take me for a walk if you like," she replied, "past the jewel shops I used to find so fascinating and across the Place de la Concorde."

He agreed readily, saying as they strolled along: "How little you have changed. I believe I should have known you anywhere."

"That must be coals of fire," she said, "and having denied the smallest remembrance of you so recently, I can't even return the compliment. . . . The beauty of it is, I came away from London because I wanted to be somewhere for a while where I shouldn't see a familiar face."

Andrew Leicester looked at her gravely.

"But mine was unfamiliar. I claim to come under the heading of the unknown to that extent."

"You can't expect me to admit I am walking about Paris with a total stranger," protested Elizabeth. "What would my children say? The young are very narrow about the behavior of parents nowadays."

In spite of herself some of the light went out of her face as she spoke and she shivered slightly.

They walked on in silence for some moments, Andrew debating a problem of his own.

Here was a woman of the world, sufficiently an old friend to be consulted and yet enough of a stranger to be impartial. He was thinking of his daughter Shirley and wondering just how her escapade would look to an unprejudiced observer like Elizabeth Sandal.

Elizabeth looked around her at the darkening streets which were beginning to glitter with lights and fill with home-going people. "Perhaps we had better turn back . . ." she said. "We are rather like two ghosts in our conception of each other . . . from different planets."

"Well met, I hope."

"Most certainly. Tomorrow in the train to Montreux I shall remember our pleasant walk."

"You are going to Montreux then? Are you fond of Switzerland?" asked Leicester, who had vaguely supposed she would be somewhere within reach.

"Not in the least, but it is such an obligingly safe and neutral country for the middle aged," she said. "My children naturally don't think me able to look after myself, and it doesn't matter. I dare say the mountain air will do me good."

"I like their anxiety for you," nodded Leicester, and seeing that she had given him an opening, began to speak of his own boy and girl, to whom he was practically a stranger. She could, if she would, as a parent who had begun at the right end and not the wrong one as circumstances had forced him to do, he said, tell him something about the present-day little devils.

Soon she had agreed to dine with him quietly at the hotel and continue the discussion.

Lying in her bath Elizabeth thought of the encounter with Andrew Leicester gratefully. He seemed likable and the very transience of this reunion gave it value. The evening which she had expected to spend alone would pass quickly, she would probably get some sleep tonight, and have a more restful journey tomorrow in consequence.

Her interest in him took her no further than that, though, when a little later he sent her a spray of orchids, she was pleased, and pinned them in her dress, feeling it was nice to be fussed over again.

He had ordered a table in a quiet corner, and chose her an excellent meal, entertaining her with amusing talk, and finally showing her the bulky packet of letters which had provided him with so much advice.

"Pages and pages of it," he said, "all telling me the worst and ordering my life for me. Do you wonder I funked going on to England and meeting my youngsters flanked by such a cohort? Just as you arrived I was waiting to telephone my sister in London and dare her to permit any of them to board the train tomorrow."

"Then you have at least a sister to protect you," she said.

The sister, he explained, a busy woman, was an economist, and apart from being bursar for his children, not available to act in loco parentis. . . . They had spent their early years in Northumberland with an aunt of his own to whom he had been much attached, and after her death with her son, his cousin, Roger Leicester. The boy still made Uplands his home during the holidays, but five years ago an outcry from his wife's relatives had persuaded him that a bachelor household was no place for a girl of fourteen, and Shirley had since gone to them in turn, though chiefly to her grandmother.

"You know it hadn't even occurred to me, but I supposed they were right," he said questioningly.

She thought that would depend upon the bachelor and the household, but there seemed little wrong with either from his account. Uplands was an old but smallish estate and Roger a thoroughly decent chap, he said. His old Scotch housekeeper had looked after the children in the holidays. Still, a girl growing up perhaps should have women of her own kind about her, and it hadn't seemed quite fair to refuse her mother's people, especially as they were not too well off, and it gave him an opportunity to make things a little easier for them.

If Beau Is Devoted to You, Jealousy of Old Flame Is Folly

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

When the current sweetheart meets the old sweetheart there are fireworks, sure enough! That's the report that reaches us, at least. But why? Why can't she be "placed" as the man's conduct signifies her back place in the general scheme?

It seems to us that the reigning favorite could feel a bit of sympathy for the discarded one. She could stir up a glimmer of pity for the other woman's loss of so fine a prize. We assume the current favorite deems her conquest a prize winer.

In any event, you can't assume that a man who has been running around for years has entirely escaped women before you happened to meet him. But why go into that when he is doing everything in his power to prove his devotion to you.

Have you been sitting idly through the years from 18 to 23, or 4 or 5, say, with nary a date or a man in your life? Why crucify the gentleman for a perfectly normal past with your own measuring up in a similar way?

The above philosophy is inspired by a communication from a girl of 23 who sees red every time her current suitor meets an old girl pal and is pleasant to her. Why shouldn't he be pleasant to her? As a femme, you probably do a little internal gloating when an old beau of yours reappears with a smile for you.

Remarks today are addressed to girls in their teens whose trouble is the tragic one to them of blackhead accumulation with subsequent pimple development.

My advice, if you have a bad case of pimples, is that you put yourself in the hands of an expert in skin clearing if you can afford it. In addition to the advanced methods of treatment you will do what you are told because you are checked with every treatment and you are paying for it.

I put a girl of 15, who had a really bad face, on the simplest form of treatment. I promised her that on a particular date three months away she would be able to face a crowd without flinching, and she did. First, she had to give up sweets, of which she consumed a lot in the course of a week. I made her promise to eat salad at noon, salad again for dinner, and drink her six glasses of water daily, which she did. Of her own accord she volunteered to cut out desserts.

Then I extracted a promise from her, which she kept, to scrub her face every night and morning with the complexion brush I saw she had. She tied back her locks and scrubbed with a good but inexpensive soap, scrubbing extra well in around the nose, across the forehead, and around the mouth corners. After the brush and soap scrubbing she had to rinse her face in warm water and then in cold—a lot of cold, cold water—not just a little dab. Then dry vigorously with a coarse towel. It's simple as can be, but in this young woman's case the effect was magical. Regular elimination was important, understand. The thorough face scrubbing and the diet performed the miracle, and it will for you, too.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Before spring moving or house cleaning advances another day we remind you fastidious housewives again of a perfumed paint sachet that has several special charms.

It isn't expensive, for one thing. For another, it comes in six lovely fragrances. And it's easy to use and effective.

This perfumed paint sachet looks like a heavy paste in the containers. A little paddle comes with it. You simply dip this light little spatula into the fragrant paste and daub where the spirit moves you. The most popular trick is to spread some on the underside of closet shelves or dresser drawers. The delicate scent wafts its way to the belongings therein. A tiny daub on an electric light bulb perfumes a room and replaces unpleasant odors with delightful ones.

On dresser drawers, the inside of chests or on closet molding the perfumed paint will not rub off; it can be removed with hot water. A little bit goes a long way. The contents of one tiny container will perfume a large closet or several dresser drawers.

This perfumed paint sachet comes in charming fragrances. For the dresser drawers or closet compartments containing your dress-up things we suggest rose or gardenia. For your linens and blankets and all the winter things you tuck away now that spring has finally arrived, try verbena or lavender. There is a pine for those who like it and a light, fresh bouquet that you can daub on the boxes, drawers or closets that hold the clothes you wear every day.

As a spring gesture toward the more fragrant life try this.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH

Millions Suffer Without Knowing!

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities, Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store.

POLIDENT Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in ½ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

G. B. Carpenter Weds Eastern Girl on June 20

year in England with her mother Last year she attended the University of Chicago. Mr. de Peyster, who was graduated from Williams college in 1936, is studying medicine at the University of Chicago. No date for the wedding is set.

Miss Watson and Mr. Ewell plan to be married in September. They have been friends ever since they were babies, for their parents were friends before either couple was married. Mr. and Mrs. Ewell met in one of Dr. Watson's art classes and later became engaged while on an European tour with him. Miss Watson will be graduated in June from the Art institute, of which her father is the membership lecturer. Mr. Ewell was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last June.

Virginia Catherin Williams to Wed H. J. Prussing Jr.

Another bit of romantic news that was revealed at a party yesterday was the engagement announcement of Miss Virginia Catherin Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Laughlin of Panama City, Fla., formerly of Chicago and Lake Bluff, to Herbert John Prussing Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Prussing of Kenilworth. Mr. and Mrs. Prussing gave the party at their home.

Miss Williams attended the Frances Shimer school and Lake Forest college and Mr. Prussing was graduated from the Boys' Latin school and the University of Illinois. The wedding will take place in the fall.

The thirty-nine men who were elected to membership in the Tavern club during the last year will be wined and dined as guests of the club at a jolly party arranged for tonight. Music, dinner, movies of last year's welcoming party, and a talk by the Tavern's president, Alfred MacArthur, are on the program. The party is a stag affair, so wives of the "Freshmen of the Tavern club" and of the other members who are planning to attend it will be widows for the evening.

Junior Joseph T. Ryersons Give Tea for Artist Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson Jr. will entertain at a tea for Kipp Soldwedel, American artist, from 4:30 until 7 o'clock this afternoon in their home. Mr. Soldwedel will exhibit a few of his portraits. Among them will be one of Mrs. Theodore Tieken, one of Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody Jr., one of both Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson, and a character sketch of an old woman that Mr. Soldwedel did while on his travels. He is working on a portrait of Mr. Tieken, but it is doubtful if it will be finished in time to be exhibited at the tea. Mr. Soldwedel, who arrived in town a week ago, will do portraits of several Chicagoans while he is here.

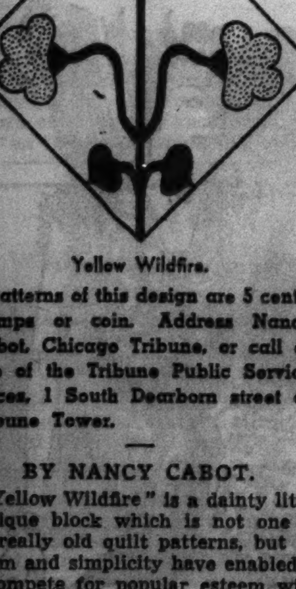
Arthur Dixon III. gave a homecoming surprise party Saturday night for Mrs. Dixon, who has just returned from a four months' stay in California. The party was given at the Dixons' home in Lake Forest and the guests were asked to wear their favorite vacation costumes, which ranged all the way from riding clothes to bathing suits.

The Friendly Aid society, which has nearly fifty years of charitable work to its credit, will give its tenth annual card party tomorrow afternoon at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Ainsworth W. Clark is chairman of the party. Mrs. John T. Agar retired as president of the organization at its annual meeting, and Mrs. Anna Burton De Graw was elected president. The society contributes to fifteen Chicago charities.

The American Friends of China have cards out for a luncheon Wednesday at the Arts club for Julean Arnold, American commercial attaché at Shanghai, China. Mr. Arnold will bring the members recent news from China.

The board of managers of the Home for Destitute Crippled Children has issued invitations to a tea in celebration of National Hospital day from 3 until 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the hospital, 970 East 59th street. Mrs. H. Foster Straw is chairman of the board.

Dainty Applique Quilt Esteemed for Its Simplicity



Yellow Wildfire.

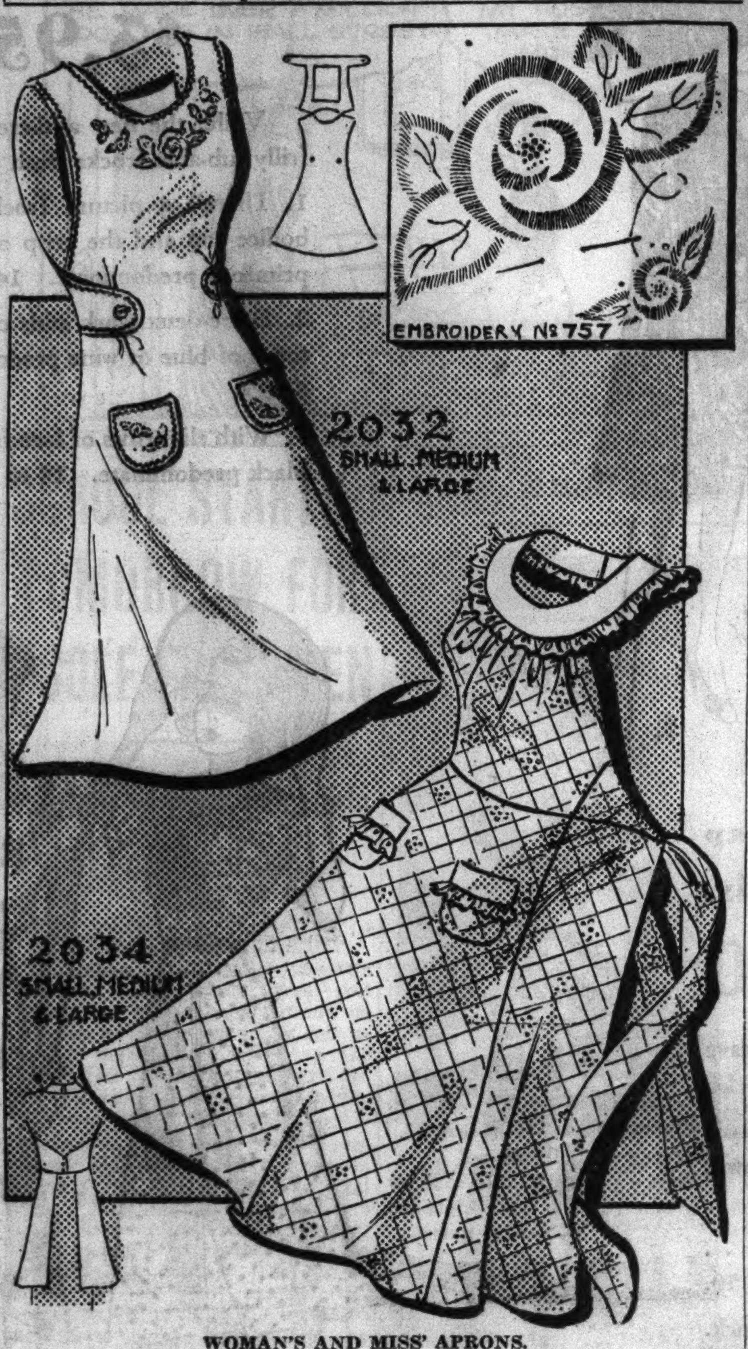
Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Yellow Wildfire" is a dainty little applique block which is not one of the really old quilt patterns, but its charm and simplicity have enabled it to compete for popular esteem with many of the old time favorites. As the name implies, the flower must be made of yellow material, but printed or plain fabric for the petals is a matter of individual choice. "Yellow Wildfire" is admirably suited for an applique design for a bed coverlet. The applique and plain blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement on the diagonal. The quilt is squared off with plain half and quarter blocks and surrounded by a four inch border and a half inch bias binding.

HAROLD TEEN—A TOO SUDDEN CHANGE

Two Aprons for Summer



WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRONS.

Summer is the time of informal luncheons and snack parties on the porch, in the garden, and at the country home. It also is the time of many "showers" for prospective brides. All of these circumstances make the pattern offering today timely. Here are two pretty aprons to cover your frocks and to add gayety to the party scene.

Illustrated at the top of the sketch is a practical "coverall" apron which is easy to don and simple to take off. There are only two buttons to fasten. The clever belt treatment assures good fit at the waistline. There is a slenderizing panel effect down the front. Two pockets are capacious and useful. This apron is very smart in crash or denim, with colorful contrasting embroidery. The pattern for this is No. E-757, and is available for 10 cents extra.

The other apron is a quaint and pretty peasant type, with round, ruffled yoke. The bodice is fitted tight at the waist, and there is soft fullness through the bustline. The sash allows the wearer to adjust the waistline snugly to the figure. Bright prints are most effective in this model.

Style No. 2032 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material, with 7¾ yards of binding.

Style No. 2034 is designed for small, medium, and large sizes, too. The medium size requires 1½ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

CLOTILDE PATTERNS ARE 10 CENTS EACH

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Zimmerman of the Park Lane hotel announce the marriage Saturday of their daughter, Marion, to Alphonse Soen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Soen of Lille, France. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman, who are former Chicagoans, have lived in France for the last nine years, returning to Chicago in September. On May 24 they will sail from San Francisco for Australia to make their home in Melbourne. Their daughter, who is just 18, and her bridegroom, who arrived here two weeks ago, are sailing for France on the Normandy on May 18 to make their home at Marcq-en-Baroeul.

Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage May 19 of Miss Ruth Marano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marano of 531 Aldine avenue, to Abe Harold Bass of Chicago. After a wedding trip to White Sulphur Springs and the Great Smoky Mountains Mr. Bass and his bride will be at home in an apartment on the near north side.

Cornflakes, one of our most popular breakfast cereals, bequeath their most admirable quality, that of crispness, to cookies, macaroons, pie shells, and crumble puddings in which they are used. Most cornflake desserts and confections are exceedingly simple to make, so simple that the degree of their goodness seems surprising.

Cornflake Butter Crust.
[For 9 Inch Pan.]

1⅓ cups finely crushed cornflakes
¾ cup melted butter
6 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon [optional]

About 6 cups of whole cornflakes will be required to make 1½ cups crushed. Mix butter and sugar with crums and press the mixture over the bottom and sides of a pie pan. Chill or bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes. Fill with cooked and cooled filling or with filling which doesn't require cooking.

Chewy Cornflake Cookies.
[About 2½ Dozen.]

½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar
3 cups cornflakes
1 cup coconut
1 cup chopped nuts

Add vanilla to beaten eggs and beat in sugar. Work in other ingredients and drop in thin cakes onto a greased baking sheet. Bake for about 15 minutes at 350 degrees.

Caramel Cornflake Ring.
[Seven Inch Ring Mold.]

1 cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter
4 cups cornflakes

Melt brown sugar and butter together over low heat and fold in the cornflakes until well coated with the mixture. Press lightly into a greased ring mold and let stand a few minutes. Turn ring onto a platter before it becomes cold. Fill the center with sweetened fresh fruit or stewed fruit.

Apricot Cornflake Macaroons.
[One and One-half Dozen.]

⅓ cup sweetened condensed milk
1 cup shredded coconut
2 cups cornflakes
1 cup dried apricots

Soften the apricots in hot water, drain, and cut in small pieces. Mix ingredients thoroughly and shape into balls with the fingers. Place on a greased baking sheet about an inch apart. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes, or until lightly browned.

Delicious fruit puddings may be made with a topping of the same cornflake mixture used for pie crust. Sprinkle it thickly over sliced apples, peaches, pears, or other fruits and bake in the oven until thoroughly hot. Or sprinkle the buttery crums in the bottom of a dessert glass, cover with a creamy pudding such as custard, tapioca, or cornstarch and top with more of the crums.

She'll find Mary Meade's booklet, "Two Mouths to Feed," was written especially for her. FOREWORD AND WARNING.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

In presenting a Culbertson system for five-suit bridge I wish to make it plain that this game is in no sense supplanting contract bridge. But I have received numerous requests, from all parts of the country, for instruction in the bidding of five-suit hands, and today's article is really a response to those requests.

The widow card: The most important phase of bidding is taking into consideration the exposed sixty-fifth card, the widow. Certain conventions must be adopted in this connection, in order to keep both partners from counting the widow. Hence the following:

[a] If the widow card is a jack or higher, the player who makes the first bid for his side is understood to be including the honor value of the widow in that bid. [b] If the widow is lower than a jack it is mentally included in the bid of the partner who is first to mention the suit to which the widow belongs. [c] When the widow is neither an honor nor a low card of a bid suit its value is temporarily discounted by both partners, since its eventual use has not been established. [d] Although the honor value of the widow, if any, is taken by the first bidder of a partnership the distributional value belongs to the player who bids the suit of the widow card. Example: Suppose the widow is the spade king. North opens the bidding with one eagle and South responds with two spades. The mutual understanding is that North has taken the one-half honor trick value of the spade king, but that South has taken the playing value of a spade into his own bid.

The Culbertson standard table of defensive honor tricks applies to five-suit bridge as it does to contract.

Opening suit bid requirements: Three and a half honor tricks with a four-card biddable suit; three honor tricks with a rebiddable five-card, or longer, suit; two and a half honor tricks with ten cards in two suits [5-5, 6-4, etc.]. A weak opening no trump bid, based on three-plus to four honor tricks is advocated because of its value as a shutout bid. [Third and fourth hand no trumps require four to five honor tricks].

[I will continue explaining the Culbertson system of five-suit bridge in Wednesday's column.]

Widow: ♠ 6.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

North had an excellent hand, at most worth an opening two bid. The spade six in the widow gave him a five-card suit and dictated his opening bid. After the two diamond response by South, North's hand became distinctly slammish and he used the four-five no trump convention to locate controls. The response showing the spade ace made a six diamond game and slam contract appear safe, since one of North's clubs could be exchanged for the widow if that course were found desirable. In the actual play South found a better use for the widow.

West opened the eagle jack, and South, the declarer, put the spade six in dummy and discarded the heart deuce. His own low spade went on dummy's second eagle trick and he then entered his hand with the spade ace to try the diamond finesse. It lost, and a club was returned, West winning the ace and returning a club. Dummy's jack won, the outstanding trumps were drawn and a spade was ruffed. South then had merely to lay down the king and ten of clubs and discard hearts from dummy in order to insure that no heart trick need be lost. The defenders had taken two tricks, but this still left the declarer with a fulfilled contract.

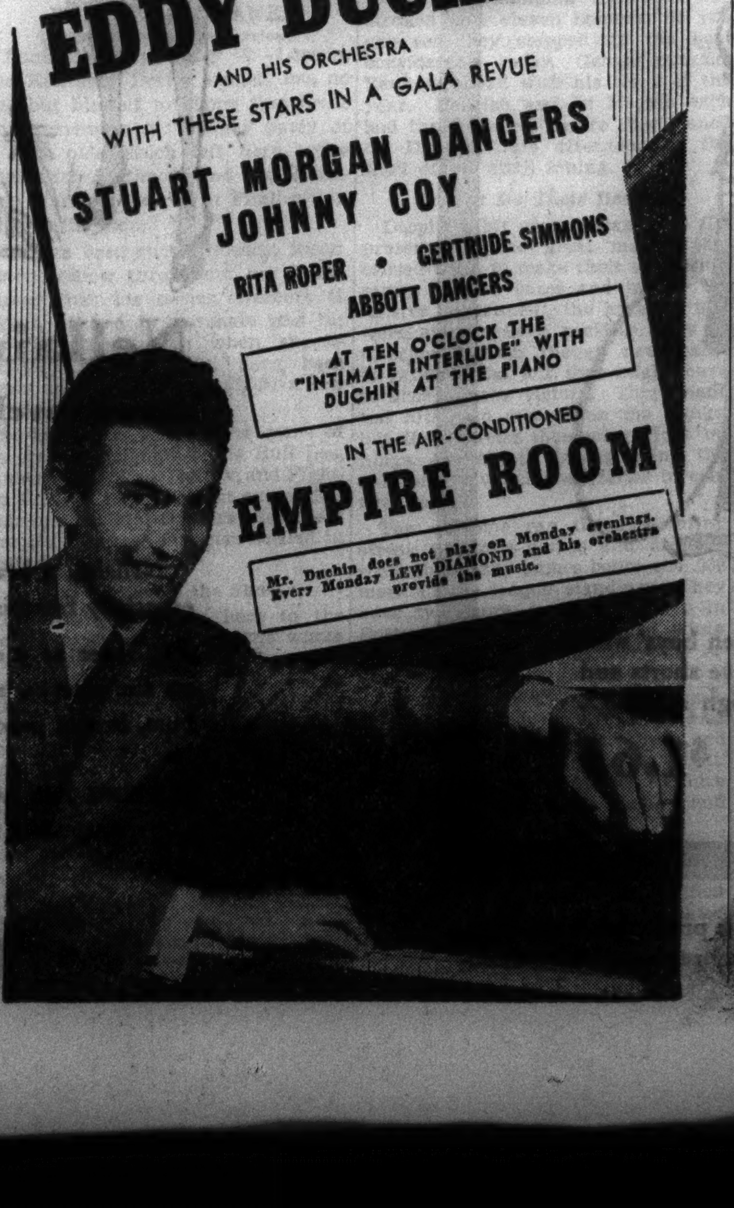
The Housewife

If you keep some of your beautiful silver pieces such as a tea service or a coffee urn or bowls or vases on the sideboard you may often wish that just one week would go by when they did not require polishing.

Well, here's something that will bring joy to your heart. There is a liquid to protect silver from tarnishing. It is a clear, harmless fluid that is easily and quickly applied and that forms an invisible coating that keeps the silver lustrous for a considerable time. This simple treatment, following the next polishing, will prolong its beauty for months.

The treatment will not rub off and is improved with rubbing with a clean cloth after application, but it must be renewed after washing with hot water and soap. EDITH WEIGLE.



New Method of Child Rearing Merits Praise

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Once in about two or three years I receive a letter, following some article in this column, in which I am told that "it is people like you who fill our jails, cause the young to be criminal, and are responsible for the drinking, smoking, and sexual immorality of this younger generation! One of these has come to my desk recently which, while well written and not so extreme in tone, still accuses us of dangerous advice.

On the various points in these letters I might write for a week, and actually the matter hasn't that much value to us. But this much I believe is worth pointing out:

1. That a large percentage of crime, delinquency, and undesirable behavior is due to poverty and all that goes with it; also to subnormal mentality and physical abnormality.

2. That some of it is due to the failure of society as it is organized today—a condition that humanitarians, educators, social economists, legislators, and the religious element are striving to correct.

3. That the home and the parents do fail often, due either to not caring or not knowing, or to circumstances too difficult for those people concerned to cope with.

4. But that those who are advocating an intelligent, sympathetic, and thoughtful rearing of children [not through force and punishment] are not filling the jails, nor creating criminals, nor driving young people to drink and immorality. People who read my column and the writing of others in this field and then make such statements simply don't take in what they read. They either misunderstand or use the articles as a taking-off place for their flights of words and tirades.

A vast and valuable work is being done in this country [above all countries in the world today] in parent education, of which the true purpose is:

[a] A fundamental understanding of a baby, a child, a youth.

[b] Sympathy with their nature and needs.

[c] And the fitting of them through the channeling of their energy, the wise direction of their urges, and the building of their characters to live well now as children, and later as adults, in the changing, difficult world as it is today and may be tomorrow.

EUROPE'S FIGHT CHAMPIONS LAND IN NEW YORK TODAY

THE GUMPS—JUST AN OLD PESSIMIST

CHICAGO IS GOAL AFTER TWO DAY VISIT IN EAST

Squad Is Strongest to Invade Stadium.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE EAST OF TIMES SQUARE, May 8.—Europe's ten greatest amateur fighters, bound for Chicago to meet the 1938 Golden Gloves winners in the climax of the biggest boxing tournament in the world, will set foot on United States soil about 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. After clearing the customs they will be taken to the New Yorker hotel, which will serve as their headquarters during their two day sightseeing tour of fabled Manhattan.

The team, made up of working boys or fellows serving their time in various European armies, is anxious for its first glimpse of New York's majestic skyline as they sail toward it aboard the Queen Mary, but without exception the boxers are much more eager to move on to Chicago, where May 18 they are scheduled for the greatest adventure of their lives.

Fight to Tie Score.

Only once before has a team of the caliber of this one visited America. That was a year ago when Chicago's Golden Gloves champions fought the best Europe could send over to a tie score. The four representatives of the International Boxing federation who are in charge of the squad rate this group much stronger than last year's.

Six nations have earned representation on the team. They are Italy, Germany, Poland, Ireland, Finland, and Hungary. Although there are ten boxers in the party, only eight will appear in championship competition in the Chicago Stadium. Two reserves will take part in preliminary bouts.

Talk of arrival was forgotten momentarily this afternoon when the boys put on boxing gloves for the last workout aboard the Queen Mary. The wind blew in a chilly blast across the sun deck of the liner, but passengers, who daily have constituted an interested gallery, muffled themselves in overcoats and, operating on the theory that in union there is warmth, huddled together in little knots around an improvised ring. The last sparring drill before the team reaches Chicago on Wednesday was conducted without mishap.

Kolczynski Wants to Get There.

None of the boxers is more anxious to reach Chicago than Antoni Kolczynski of Poland, welterweight champion of Europe, who has heard from other Polish boxers who were members of former international teams that next to Warsaw, Chicago is the biggest Polish city in the world.

The only member of the team who can converse with Kolczynski is Ulderico Sergo of Italy, who has fought in Warsaw two or three times. It requires maps, diagrams, and acrobatics, however, for Sergo and Kolczynski to understand each other. To obtain information on Kolczynski's career it was necessary for your correspondent to present questions to Count Gerardo Leonardi of Italy, who translated them into Italian for Sergo.

Kolczynski, who whipped Paddy Clancy of Ireland in Berlin on April 29 to win the European title, is 20 years old. He married Stanislawa Szemanska, former Polish swimming champion, and they are parents of a girl. This is his first trip to the United States. His home is in Warsaw, where he is employed in a steel mill.

Has Been Boxing Four Years.

Kolczynski has been boxing for four years. He has had sixty-seven bouts and has lost only four. His record of thirty-two knockouts gives one an idea of his punching power.

SCHOOL STARTS TOMORROW FOR GOLF FRESHMEN

Tribune Teachers Preside at Four Courses.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The stage and cast of THE TRIBUNE'S sixth annual free golf school, peer of the game's group instruction projects, are ready for tomorrow night's first lesson on the four courses of the Chicago park district—Jackson, Diversey in Lincoln, Columbus, and Marquette.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 men, women and children interested in learning the fundamentals of golf from a staf composed of members of the Illinois section of the P. G. A. are expected to be present for the series of four lessons. The second lesson will be given at all four courses on Thursday night, the third on Tuesday night, May 17, and the fourth and final of the regular course on Thursday, May 19.

Get There on Time.

Every pupil is urged to be prompt. All classes will be combined for men, women, and children. Every class will begin at 7 p. m. and will last for about an hour. Each student is asked to bring one golf club to the course most convenient to his or her home. There is no charge for any of the lessons.

Beginning with tomorrow's TRIBUNE, the story of each day's class will be accompanied by a separate article detailing the nature of that night's lesson. For instance, tomorrow's lesson will deal with the grip and the preliminary instruction on the stance. Each student in the school is advised to read these lessons, so he may be prepared for the actual instruction he will receive from his P. G. A. instructors.

It Is Very Simple.

The system of teaching inaugurated by THE TRIBUNE and the P. G. A. members in 1933 still is founded on the same principle—simplicity. The school's faculty makes no effort to interpret the complex side of the game as practiced by tournament professionals. This is why not only rank novices who never have swung a club are invited, but golfers who have been playing for years as well.

Of the 110,000 students who enrolled in the first five years of the school, at least one-fifth was composed of golfers who had played the game for several years, both at public parks and daily fee courses. Most of them found one kink in their play was impeding their progress and that attendance at the school's classes generally ironed it out.

Stars Will Win Rewards.

Following the completion of the fourth lesson on May 19, the head instructor at each of the four courses, assisted by his colleagues, will choose the two best students in each division—men's, women's, boys and girls'. This will send a class of thirty-two finalists to the graduating exercises of the school, to be held at the Diversey course in Lincoln park on Sunday afternoon, May 22. These thirty-two then will be judged by a jury of leading professionals.

Each of the first four named will receive a set of clubs and a golf bag, together with a season ticket to the Chicago open tournament at Olympia Fields on July 22, 23 and 24. The other twenty-eight finalists will be rewarded with one dozen P. G. A. balls and a ticket for the final thirty-six holes of the Chicago open each.

Another Link in Sox's Chain of Misfortune

Joe Kuhel, first baseman for the unfortunate White Sox, slides into the hospital. Joe, making an unsuccessful attempt to steal second in the sixth inning of yesterday's game in Yankee stadium, wrenches his right foot severely and will be out of the lineup for at least ten days. Shortstop Frank Crosetti is covering second on the play.

Kuhel, impatient to return to the Sox lineup, examines his injured foot in his New York hotel room last night.

Lawrin Sees Rivals Leave for Preakness

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—Lawrin, the Kentucky Derby winner, has no one but himself to blame that he is not a member of the gay party of 3 year olds which left here today bound for Baltimore and the Preakness stakes to be run at Pimlico Saturday afternoon.

He has been such a moody, inconsistent fellow throughout his racing career that his owner, Herbert G. Woolf, refused to nominate him for the Preakness even when supplementary entries could have been made on a payment of $1,500 a few weeks ago.

So he still is here at the scene of his greatest triumph while Bull Lea, Dauber, Can't Wait, Menow, and Fighting Fox are speeding east expressing their opinion that the scrap for the 3 year old title was far from settled in yesterday's Derby.

They'll Provide the Show.

The five going from here to the Preakness should provide the whole show in Pimlico's 3 year old special. They will meet up with Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Nedayr in the Preakness and with three or four others that did not start in the Derby. Nedayr has been beaten in all of his starts this year while the other easterners awaiting the Preakness were not considered good enough for a try at the Derby.

All of those in the Derby party which departed for the Preakness today were in good condition. Bull Lea has a slight scratch on his left

FIRST BASEMAN'S FOOT INJURED AS YANKS WIN, 7-3

Di Maggio, Gehrig and Henrich Hit Homers.

Operate on Brown

CLINT BROWN, the White Sox's record setting relief pitcher, will enter Michael Reese hospital this afternoon for an operation for the removal of a bone chip in his right elbow, Harry Grabiner, vice president of the club, announced yesterday. Brown probably will be unable to pitch again this season, Grabiner said after a conference with Dr. Phillip Kreuscher, who will perform the operation.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 8.—There was quite a span today when the White Sox were doing all right against the Yankees. For instance, they made four hits and had two runs home before the New Yorkers made their first hit with two out in the fourth inning. Then sad things happened, and there was a Yankee victory, 7 to 3.

Transcending all the grief occasioned by homers socked by Lou Gehrig, Tommy Henrich, and Joe Di Maggio was the day's instalment of the injury jinx. Joe Kuhel was put out of action in the sixth inning, trying to slide into second, after the Yanks had pitched out as Marvin Owen attempted a hit and run play. Joe was carried from the field.

Joe Goes to Hospital.

Kuhel underwent preliminary treatment in the clubhouse, but after the game was removed to a hospital for X-rays and further treatment. The X-rays showed no break, but physicians said Joe's right foot was badly wrenched and that he would be out for at least ten days.

Rupert Thompson, who played first during the Bonura holdout era, replaced Kuhel and will be retained beyond the player limit date, May 23. He had been scheduled to return to San Diego, whence he came to the Sox in the draft.

Apparently the Yankees have been waiting for the Sox to come along and set off their 1938 homer technique. In nineteen games prior to today the champion ensemble had stroked only eleven homers. So you can see they stepped up the beat considerably today. Gehrig put the Yankees ahead with his No. 2 of the year. Henrich and Di Maggio each had three homers before they leaned on Dietrich this afternoon at the start of the sixth inning.

Sox Do Their Best.

Despite a bit of nervousness in the presence of the great men, which caused them to make their surprising errors on the bases and in the defensive department, the harassed Sox were able to keep pecking away at Charley Ruffing, though never able to produce the jolt that might have returned them victors. They made ten hits, two more than the Yanks, but they spread them over eight innings, the eighth inning being the only one in which they failed to connect safely.

The outcome ran the Sox losing streak to three games and dropped them that many games below the .500 mark in the league standings. They have two more games here, two in Boston, and three in Cleveland before the players who escape hospitals return to Chicago.

The Sox broke through in the second, scoring a run before an out was accomplished. Kuhel walked and scored on Owen's double to right. Owen took third on Hayes' sacrifice and stayed there while Sewell and Dietrich tapped to Ruffing.

With one down in the third Kreevich walked and went to third on Steinbacher's single to center. When Di Maggio threw the ball over third into the Yankee dugout Kreevich

OTT GETS TWO HOMERS WITH RIPPLE ON BASE

Hubbell Has Only One Bad Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Carl Hubbell, rightfully called the king of left handers, yesterday showed the Cubs and 20,835 spectators the main reason why the New York Giants won two consecutive pennants and have an excellent chance of making it three in a row. Hubbell, who works without any unnecessary flourishes, let the Cubs line up and then knocked them down, his title holding mates meanwhile slapping home enough runs to give him his fourth victory of the season. The score was 4 to 2.

Particularly active in Hubbell's behalf was Mel Ott. The tiny southerner, who became a big leaguer at the ripe old age of 17, bats left handed and Larry French, a lefty, was opposing him. But Ott batted down the theory that a left handed batsman cannot hit a southpaw. He smashed out his fourth and fifth home runs of the season, each with a runner on base, to account for all the Giants' tallies.

Galan Has Field Day.

On the basis of hits, French had an edge on Hubbell, but that proved a somewhat hollow distinction. French, who was removed for a pinch hitter after seven innings, gave up only five hits. Hubbell was nicked for a half dozen in the same stretch of innings. But the difference between their records was due to Augie Galan, who eased the pain for the Cub partisans by charging to his left in the seventh to accomplish a galloping, one handed shoestring catch of a drive by Gus Mancuso. And Augie later staged a robbery off Hank Leiber to make Jack Russell's two inning performance a one hit affair.

Galan also sparkled at bat. Hubbell was no mystery to him. He cracked the great one for three of the Cubs' nine hits and also drew one of the two passes granted the Chicagoans. But the pass was the only item that carried Augie to the coveted goal. He drew it in the sixth, after Frank Demaree had singled and followed the latter home when Gabby Hartnett doubled for the Cubs' only runs. The Giants were ahead, 4 to 0, at the time and the slight jarring seemingly had no effect on Hubbell. He couldn't be touched except for a few unproductive hits in the last three innings.

Mr. Ott Fools French.

Everything went fine for French in the first inning until after Herman had thrown out Moore and Hack had done the same to Bartell. Ripple was inclined to be critical about what was being pitched to him and the result was a pass, which a moment later proved costly. French endeavored to sneak the first pitch past Ott and the latter made a perfect guess on Larry's strategy. He swung and produced his fourth homer of the season, the ball dropping among the left field bleacher customers.

The Cubs had a limited amount of harmless fun with Hubbell in their half of the first, but King Carl also had his fun. His share of the pleasure was consecutive strikeouts of Hack and Herman, the latter's being called. The Cubs' second really was noteworthy. They made two hits. Galan singled with one out and after two were out Jurges also singled. This ceased to be a threat when French rolled to Ott for a force play at third.

French didn't yield another hit until the third, a single to left by Ripple with two out. Ott then grounded to Cavarretta. The next complication was a pass to Leiber

GOLDEN GLOVERS CONTINUE DRILLS; NEAR PERFECTION

Cold Delays Kainrath's Drive for Sergo Bout.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Golden Glovers, who are conditioning themselves in intra-squad battles for the international bouts against the champions of Europe in the Stadium May 18, each went through two rounds of boxing yesterday afternoon in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium.

It was the fastest and most furious exhibition of the training period and, linked with Saturday's two round drill, served to bring the boys a long way along the road to physical perfection.

One boxer, however, was excused from this strenuous program which included four rounds of floor work and one round on the mats in addition to the boxing. Frank Kainrath, captain of the undefeated Chicago team, is suffering from a slight cold. Coach John Behr, on the advice of Dr. William Rothman, chief of the staf of Golden Gloves physicians, kept Frankie out of the ring.

Wants to Fight Sergo.

There is no member of the squad more eager to work than Kainrath for he is determined to prove his right to meet Ulderico Sergo, the Italian bantamweight champion of Europe, who defeated him last year and who whipped Jackie Wilson for the Olympic title in 1936 in the finals in Berlin, and who, in 1935, defeated Johnny Brown of the C. Y. O., in the international matches between Italy and Chicago.

While the Chicago boys were going earnestly about their chores their thoughts were of the European squad which arrives today in New York. Wednesday the visitors will reach Chicago, arriving in Union station at 1:30 p. m., Chicago daylight time. They will complete their training, started aboard the Queen Mary, in the Medinah club. Arrangements have been made for a number of Chicago amateur boxers, many of them from the Catholic Youth organization, to serve as sparring partners for the Europeans.

Reception Committee Meets.

The executive committee on reception to Chicago's visitors will meet at noon today in the sports department of THE TRIBUNE to complete arrangements. After today's meeting announcement of the societies and organizations which will be represented at Union station will be made. Members of the executive committee, chosen last Friday at the first meeting of the general committee on arrangements, are:

John Dolce, John Merlo, Anthony De Julio, Jack Elder, Mike Murphy, Capt. George H. Weideling, Reynold Oeschler, Herbert Nordegg, Dr. O. Denzer, John Troike, Dr. Ludwik Krzyanowski, John Czech, Dr. B. Sadowski, Homer Buckley, Roger Faherty, Kevin Kelly, Peter J. Peel, Capt. Roy E. Davis, Carl Stockholm, Frank E. Nelson, and Alexander Kontif.

Six nations, Hungary, Italy, Ireland, Germany, Finland, and Poland, are represented on the European squad. Societies and clubs in Chicago with the cultural and racial backgrounds of these nations are planning to have representation at Union station. Drum corps, bands and uniformed groups will join in the civic demonstration of welcome. The consulates of the nations are planning to be represented officially and, in addition, G. Oldenburg, consul for Sweden, will officially greet Oscar Soderlund of Stockholm, president of the International Boxing federation, one of the four officials accompanying the European team.

New Map of Chicagoland Is Anglers' Boon

BY BOB BECKER.

Many fishing spots available to fishermen with bait casting or fly rod equipment are shown on the new Chicagoland map just published by THE TRIBUNE and now on sale at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. The map includes all of the lake country in northern Illinois and also shows the many small lakes in southern Wisconsin, where a little later in the season a fisherman may try his fishing tricks to get a mess of crappies, bluegills, black bass, and pickerel.

Among the nearby lakes the new Chicagoland map features and which offer a pretty good chance for some fish is Lake Zurich. This lake [on Highway 12, which runs out of Chicago] is an easy lake to fish, has some dandy weed beds, and is stocked with bass, bluegills, and crappies.

Diamond Lake a Good Spot.

Some of the early season crappie fishermen already have picked up some pretty nice strings of fish from Diamond lake. The new map shows how to reach this lake by leaving one of the main highways running north and then cutting over to a cross route. Diamond lake is almost due west of Lake Forest.

For the bait caster the lakes around Fox lake and Antioch represent the best bets in northern Illinois. Now that the pickerel [northern pike] season is open many of the boys are visiting these lakes to toss their lures around. We have seen more pickerel caught in the winter through the ice on Fox lake, Lake Marie, and other fishing spots in northern Illinois than we saw on stringers during the spring and summer months.

They're a Sporty Breed.

These slim fish, real fighters when they weigh ten to twenty pounds, are in many of the northern Illinois lakes and they can be caught on artificial lures.

That part of the Fox river from Fox River Grove north not only is scenically worth while, but it also is an inviting stretch to the fishermen who know how to toss a little fly at the bluegills. Lester Thompson of Elgin reports some excellent bluegill catches from the Fox on a fly made with red and white body and white hair wing.

IRISH VARSITY BEATS OLD TIME STARS, 14 TO 6

Notre Dame, Ind., May 8.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's prospective 1938 varsity defeated the graduating 1937 Old Timers in a football game today, 14 to 6.

The varsity scored in the first period after Ben Sheridan recovered a fumble by Andy Puplis on the 12 yard line. Harold Gottsacker went over from the one yard line.

The varsity scored again in the final period after the Old Timers had been replaced by a freshman group. Sheridan went over from the 6 yard line to culminate a forty yard march in which he had made a thirty yard run.

front leg, but it was not considered serious by Trainer Frank Kearns.

It may be that these Preakness colts are right about Lawrin's claims to the title as a result of his Derby victory and his triumph in the Flamingo Stakes in Florida during the winter.

His record both as a 2 and 3 year old has been very spotty. As a 2 year old he won only three races.

In his first start as a 3 year old at Hialeah Park he was beaten, but it is true it was by the good colt Isaroma, which so far never has been beaten. Lawrin carried Isaroma along so swiftly in that battle that the latter was injured and has not been able to get to the post since.

Next Lawrin beat a fairly good field by five lengths but—and here's the rub—two weeks later he finished last in an eight horse race. He finished third in his next outing and then came two victories in a row, one in a grade B handicap, the other in the Flamingo stakes.

Beaten by The Chief.

Moving north to Churchill Downs, he was beaten twice, first by The Chief and Mountain Ridge and then again by The Chief alone, in the Derby trial. Next came his unexpected winning journey in the Derby. There is no denying that Larwin is a hard horse to train. He has to be raced into condition, his trainer, Ben Jones, declares. That may be responsible for his record. Still, he is a money horse, having delivered the goods in his only two rich engagements.

Among recent 3 year old champions, Omaha and Granville have records similar to that of Lawrin's. They became unbeatable only after they became 3 year olds. The only hope for Lawrin is that he will follow in their steps. This could happen easily because he is closely related to both Omaha and Granville.

Some have made the statement that Lawrin is an unsound horse. This is untrue. He does have a dent in the hoof of his right forefoot, but it is gradually smoothing and the Derby race shows it no longer affects him. He was stepped on in one of his Florida races.

More dejected than ever because The Chief picked up slight injuries during the running of the Derby, Trainer Earl Sande didn't know tonight when he would leave the Derby scene. He had intended to ship to Belmont Park to prepare The Chief for the Belmont stakes. Stagehand is not eligible for the race.

On Way to Recovery.

Stagehand's temperature had gone today and he appeared to be on his way to complete recovery. Sande is determined to keep the Maxwell Howard stable here until Stagehand is himself again. He hopes to have him ready for the Arlington Classic, in which he will have a chance to match Stagehand with Lawrin.

Co-Sport and Elooto, seventh and ninth in the Derby, respectively, were moved to River Downs, in Cincinnati. Lawrin and his stablemates will remain in Churchill Downs for the remainder of the meeting.

OLYMPIC SWIM TEAM BUDGET IS SET AT $32,500

Bostonian Chairman of 1940 Committee.

Members of the Olympic swimming committee approved an estimated budget of $32,500 for the American swimming team in the 1940 Olympic games yesterday. The organization meeting, held in the Chicago Athletic association, was called to make plans for America's competition in all water sports, including diving and water polo in addition to swimming.

Lawrence J. Johnson of Boston was elected chairman of the committee and Edward T. Kennedy secretary. Kennedy will represent the group on the American Olympic committee, which will be organized next month.

Bids for the final tryouts in swimming, diving, and water polo separately or in combination, will be received by Chairman Johnson up to July 15 of this year. Coaches for each sport will be selected by the committee by July 1, 1939, to give them plenty of time to instruct the candidates in Olympic technique. The team manager will not be selected before Jan. 1, 1940.

Expect Trials to Help.

It was estimated the final tryouts should yield not less than $9,000 to the fund to finance the team. The remainder is to be raised by taking percentages of receipts at swimming meets and benefit events, as well as the contributions of sportsmen, the work to begin at once.

Quotas were assigned to twelve districts, with chairmen as follows:

New England $2,500, Robert J. H. Kiphuth, Yale university; New York City $3,000, and New York state $1,000, E. T. Kennedy, Columbia university; Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware $2,000, Frederick W. Luehring, University of Pennsylvania; Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, and North and South Carolina $1,000, A. Earle Weeks Washington, D. C.; Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky $2,500, to be assigned by Chairman Johnson.

Illinois and Wisconsin $2,000, Tom Robinson, Northwestern university; Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota $1,000, A. Y. Russell, Des Moines, Ia.; Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Texas, and Louisiana $2,000, Arthur E. Eilers, Washington university; Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, and Mississippi $1,000, to be assigned by Chairman Johnson; Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and Wyoming $1,000, Roscoe C. Torrance, Seattle; northern California, Utah, and Nevada $2,000, Ernst Brandsten, Stanford university; southern California, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and Hawaii $2,500, Fred Cady University of Southern California.

Brundage Opens Meeting.

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic association, opened the session with a description of the general situation facing American participation. J. Lyman Bingham, assistant to the president of the A. A. U., spoke briefly.

Nine members of the committee of thirteen were present. They were Johnson, Kennedy, Luehring, Cady, Eilers, Kiphuth, Max Ritter of Frankford, Pa., Russell, and Torrance. Coach Robinson, who was ill, was represented by Art Highland, member of the 1936 team.

ROSS BOXES FOUR ROUNDS; EARNS FIRST REST TODAY

Crossinger Lake, N. Y., May 8.—[Special.]—Bill Shakespeare, former Notre Dame football star, was among spectators today who were impressed with Barney Ross' condition for the defense of his welterweight title against Henry Armstrong in the Madison Square Garden bowl on May 26.

Ross worked four rounds with the big gloves, meeting Varias Milling and Pete Galiano for two rounds apiece. Throughout the workout, Ross displayed a willing style, his tactics suggesting that he may attempt to slug with Armstrong.

Four rounds of exercises completed the day's work. Tomorrow Ross will enjoy his first day of rest since establishing camp here on April 30. Road work and a round of golf will comprise his only exercises tomorrow, but on Tuesday the boxing drills will be resumed.

WILSON, RED SOX DEFEAT FELLER, INDIANS, 5 TO 0

Boston Pitcher Fans 12 in Shutout Victory.

Boston, Mass., May 8.—(AP)—Jack Wilson, the Boston Red Sox's big right hander, shut out the league leading Cleveland Indians, 5 to 0, with four hits today. It was Boston's third straight victory. A crowd of 33,100 turned out to see Bob Feller try for his fourth straight triumph, but after yielding four runs in the first three innings he was removed for a pinch hitter.

Wilson struck out twelve. Manager Joe Cronin, who became a father yesterday, celebrated his return to the Red Sox lineup after a two day absence by hitting a homer and a double in four times up.

TODD HITS HOMER IN 12TH; PIRATES DEFEAT BEES, 2-1

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 8.—(AP)—The first ball Lou Fette served Al Todd, first man up in the Pirate half of the twelfth inning, went soaring over the left field wall today and gave Pittsburgh a 2 to 1 triumph over Boston.

The Bees took a one run lead in the second inning on three successive singles. This lasted until the eighth when Lee Handley doubled and Lloyd Waner singled. Fette went the route, scattering ten hits.

Giants Defeat Cubs, 4-2, on Ott's Homers

to open the fourth. There were no further developments, however. The Cubs also had a man on base in their half. Galan singled to left for the second time, but two were out at the moment and Hartnett closed the inning with a poke to Hubbell.

The fifth was a standoff. Each side drew one pass, didn't score and didn't hit. The Giant ticket went to Moore after two were out. Bartell popped to Hack. The Cubs were afforded a better scoring chance on the pass to Jurges, who led off. French bunted and all that kept him from arriving safely at first was a neat pickup by McCarthy of Mancuso's bad throw. Hack then flied to Moore and Chiozza threw out Herman.

Mr. Ott Again!

French's two hit performance vanished with the first batter to face him in the sixth. Ripple reached base for the third time by singling to left and a moment later was on second because of a wild pitch. This was where Ott spoke for the second time. He waited until the count was 2 and 1 before smashing his second homer of the day. This one went into the right field bleacher, giving the champions a 4 to 0 lead.

The Cubs sixth didn't get under way very auspiciously. Cavarretta led off and was called out on strikes. Demaree punched a single into right. Marty's effort was a fly to Moore, after which Galan walked. Then Hartnett caught up on two previous failures with men on bases. He looked at one strike and one ball before blasting his double into left center, scoring Demaree and Galan. The third out was Jurges' roller to Hubbell.

O, for Another Double.

If Hartnett could have scraped up another double in the eighth, the Cubs might have climbed into a tie. After Cavarretta had been disposed of for the first out, Demaree singled to left center. Marty concluded a day of futile effort by looking at a third strike. Galan wound up his afternoon by singling to left for his third hit. This was where Hartnett came in. He prolonged his chance until the count was stretched to 3 and 2. Then he subsided with a feeble grounder to Hubbell.

Cubs Send Lee Against Giants and Gumbert

The pitching today in the second of the series between the Cubs and Giants will be handled by Bill Lee for the Cubs and Harry Gumbert for the National league champions.

Tex Carleton, who was called on unexpectedly to save, and also win, Saturday's game with the Boston Bees, gave his charley horse a work-out yesterday and decided he would be ready to tackle the Giants in the series final tomorrow.

Until yesterday Rip Collins hadn't missed starting at first base since the season opened. His absence was due to a cold.

Albert Paul Epperly, whose big league debut was a six hit victory over the Phillies last Thursday, already has been booked for a return engagement. The rookie from the Moline, Ill., team will be started against the Dodgers, who follow the Giants into Wrigley field.

The Cubs and Giants had to go to work without enjoying the customary pre-game batting practice yesterday. Because of the weather the tarpaulin wasn't taken off the infield until a half hour before starting time. This bit of leeway was sufficient only for a brief fielding drill.

Harry Danning, the Giants' first string catcher, had to abandon an active rôle in the fifth inning. He bruised a finger reaching for a foul ball.

CHICAGO ROYAL LEAGUE BOWLERS WIN IN TOURNEY

Milwaukee, Wis., May 8.—[Special.]—Chicago bowlers captured first place in both men's and women's doubles events in the Royal league's twelftn annual bowling tournament which ended tonight.

In the men's doubles, Fred A. Johnson, general organizer of the league and his partner, Al Maylath, scored 1,179 while Mrs. Mary Svabek and Helen Fullerton of Lady Lafayette lodge, No. 313, scored 1,065. Mrs Svabek was also high scorer in the women's all-events class with 1,568 for the nine games.

In the five-man team class, Lafayette lodge, No. 1, Chicago, with a score of 2,631, won third place.

Kuhel's Foot Injured; Yanks Beat Sox, 7 to 3 scored and Steinbacher went to third. Walker popped to Knickerbocker and Kuhel tapped to Ruffing.

During their first three innings only nine Yanks faced Dietrich and there were two out in the fourth before the champs started teeing off. With Crossetti on first on a pass, Di Maggio accomplished the first New York hit, a single to left. Dickey followed with a double to right center scoring Crossetti and Di Maggio with the tying runs. Gehrig hit his No. 2 homer, a smash into the right field stands, scoring behind Dickey. Berger threw out Hoag.

Throwing Away Runs.

In the fifth Berger singled to right and when Kreevich did likewise Berger went to third. Crossetti, however, cut off the throw to third and sank Kreevich as he tried to reach second. Berger scored on Steinbacher's fly to Di Maggio.

The Yankees started blasting in the sixth and it never was much of a contest thereafter. Henrich and Di Maggio started things with their No. 4 homers and Dickey's single followed to remove Dietrich from the scene, Cox replacing him. Gehrig slapped Cox's first pitch for a single, putting Dickey on third. Hoag flied to Walker, then Knickerbocker grounded to Owen and Dickey was run down. As soon as Dickey was sunk between third and home, Knickerbocker ran for second. Owen threw to Hayes, whereupon Gehrig broke for home and scored the last run of the game when Hayes threw to the Yankees' dugout.

GABLER TO SEEK SECOND VICTORY FOR SOX TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 8.—Frank Gabler, who didn't allow a batsman to get to second base, except in the second inning, when he won his first start in the American league the other day in Philadelphia, will pitch for the White Sox against the Yankees tomorrow. Spud Chandler is slated for the New Yorkers.

Some of the Sox were speaking none too friendly of their old pal, Zeke Bonura, as they reflected on their exciting and unprofitable visit in Washington. Among other things the lads charge that Zeke in his exuberance was guilty of unsportsmanlike conduct. Once, they charge, he tried to interfere with Kuhel on handling an overthrow by dashing out of the dugout and gesticulating and hollering. They also say he threw bats in front of Kuhel when he was going after a foul ball. Part of their indignation at the umpires was caused by failure to see or act on these alleged transgressions.

There was a fair sized shower about an hour and a half before game time today, but when the game got under way the sun was bright and 28,440 customers were on hand. Many of them found topcoats pleasant, however.

The homer which Gehrig socked in the fourth was the first he has sent out of the park this year. It was his No. 2 homer, and the other was an on the premises affair.

Jackie Hayes was back in the Sox lineup after an absence of exactly a week. He reported the pulled sinew in his leg all right.

CHICAGO'S LUCKY 40%

ALL over Chicago, street cars, buses and automobiles come to a stand-still at his command. But up on the "L," Chicago's Lucky 40% speed on unhindered—not delayed for a minute by traffic-filled streets.

Chicago's Lucky 40% are the people who live within easy walking distance of the more than 200 convenient Elevated stations—the 40% who enjoy the full advantages of Rapid Transit. These lucky people spend less time traveling between their homes and their jobs. They have more leisure—enjoy life more.

If you are among the less fortunate 60% who are not directly reached by "L" service, you can still enjoy Rapid Transit for the greater part of your daily trips. You can use the transfer plan—with street cars and buses.

Why not do it?

Get away from hazardous street congestion. Ride up in the fresh air and sunshine—above the fumes of the monoxide belt . . . on one of the 5,383 trains operated each work day. Travel with freedom from nervous strain and the annoyance of frequent starts and stops. Get there faster . . . on the Rapid Transit elevated highways—the backbone of Chicago's transportation . . . Use the "L"!

IT ISN'T TOO LATE:
Can your back yard, front yard, porch or window garden be seen from the "L"? If so, you may win a cash prize in the annual "L" Garden Contest. "L" riders will be the judges. Get an entry card from your "L" station agent today.

GET THERE! THE FAST, COMFORTABLE WAY

BOATS TO BLAST WHISTLES AFTER JULY 1 ON RIVER

U. S. Rules Set for Signals at Lock.

Boats that for the last year have been passing through the Chicago river without blasting whistles will start tooting again this summer. Their blasts, however, will be confined to the mouth of the river where, according to government regulations, four toots will be needed to open the new lock which will be used after July 1.

According to rules of the war department, which will be subject to a public hearing May 16, two long whistle blasts, followed by two short blasts, will be the signal of a vessel approaching the lock. A long blast lasts from six to eight seconds and a short blast two seconds.

Rules for Signaling.

Boats approaching from the river side must signal the lock when within 2,000 feet of its gate, while incoming craft must signal within 4,000 feet. The regulations also say that outgoing craft may signal for the lock by means of the bridge telephone system, used to signal for bridge openings.

The lock and control works at the mouth of the river are being constructed by the Sanitary district to control the flow of the river, which will be reduced from 4,000 to 1,500 cubic feet per second in 1939 in accordance with a decision of the United States Supreme court.

Vessels now pass to the north side of the lock. Work on the construction of a north wall, from the lock to the government pier, will be started in July and vessels will then use the lock.

Precedence Is Outlined.

According to the government regulation, issued by Capt. S. N. Karrick, acting war department district engineer, precedence for the use of the lock will be given to United States vessels, fire boats, passenger vessels, and freight vessels, in the order named.

Pleasure boats, yachts, house boats, and other light-draft craft will not be premitted to interfere with the lockage of commercial craft, according to the rules, which specify that small passenger speed boats will not be classed as commercial craft.

WM. J. STRATTON, EX-SECRETARY OF STATE, DIES AT 52

Lake County Republican Leader for 20 Years.

William J. Stratton, former secretary of state of Illinois and long a leader in Republican state politics, died yesterday at his home in Ingleside, Lake county. He was 52 years old. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Zula Van Wormer Stratton, and two sons, William J. Jr. and Charles.

William J. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton was a leader of his party in Lake county for twenty years. He served for fourteen years as a member of the county's board of supervisors and for eight years he was Republican county chairman.

Named Director of Conservation.

The indictment and trial of Gov. Len Small on charges growing out of his handling of interest on state funds during Small's term as state treasurer brought state-wide prominence to Stratton, then the Republican boss of Lake county. Small obtained a change of venue from Sangamon county and the trial was held in Waukegan.

After the governor was acquitted, several of the jurors were rewarded with state jobs, and Stratton was appointed state director of conservation. Mr. Stratton served under Gov. Small until 1928, when he resigned to run for the nomination for secretary of state against Small's wishes. He opposed Small's renomination and campaigned for Louis L. Emmerson, who defeated Small and was elected governor.

Defeated in 1932 Landslide.

In the four years he was secretary of state Mr. Stratton won praise for his economical and efficient administration. He was defeated in the Democratic landslide of 1932, and was again nominated for the office in 1936, but once more lost to the Democrat, Edward J. Hughes.

For the last year Mr. Stratton had been in frail health. Early this year he became a candidate for the Republican nomination for county clerk in Lake county. He was unable to campaign, however, and he was defeated.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Ingleside Community church.

He had set his goal at 100,000, believing this measure would aid the campaign to reduce the trafic death toll. Judge Braude said yesterday he still has many cards and windshield stickers available for safe driving motorists without charge.

U. S. ARSENAL AT ROCK ISLAND IS 75 YEARS OLD

In 1863, while the United States was still torn by the civil war, the Union army constructed an arsenal at Rock Island. Today it is the largest and one of the most important arsenals in the country.

Late this month the Army Ordnance association will observe the 75th anniversary of the Rock Island arsenal. Composed of engineers and industrial executives interested in engineering developments as a phase of national defense, the association will make a tour of inspection and witness a display of the latest military automotive equipment.

Rock Island arsenal carried a great part of the burden of producing weapons for the army in the Spanish American war.

MOTHER'S DAY GREETINGS SUNG OVER TELEPHONE

Innumerable mothers in the Chicago area had Mother's day greetings warbled in their ears over the telephone yesterday. The messages were arranged by the Postal Telegraph company.

Probably the most unusual singing telegram was that received by Mrs John McDonough, a new mother, as she lay in bed at Passavant hospital The telephone rang, a choir of young women sang "Little New Mother, We Greet You Today" to the tune of "Rock-a-Bye Baby," and then eight family friends chimed in with their greetings. The eight homes and the hospital room were connected on one telephone wire.

"Mother Mine," a Mothers' day song composed by Ted Weems, orchestra leader, and introduced over W-G-N Saturday, was sung to his mother in Baltimore, Md., from the Aragon ballroom during the afternoon.

Washburn and Borrows were thrown into the lake when the plane turned over. The women were trapped in the cabin. Both men dived until nearly exhausted in attempts to release the women.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

FARMERS FACE ORDER TO SLASH WHEAT PLANTING

Complaints Seen if AAA Demands Cut.

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—If present prospects of a bumper wheat crop materialize, growers will be asked to make next fall the most drastic reduction in plantings ever proposed under the administration's crop control programs, officials of the agricultural adjustment administration said today.

The 1939 wheat program—which must be announced by July 15 under terms of the new farm act—may call for a 37.5 per cent reduction in the acreage seeded to the bread grain this season, they said.

30 Million Acre Slash.

Growers who this season planted approximately 80,000,000 acres would be asked to reduce their operations to about 50,000,000 acres—the smallest since before the world war.

Some officials said they anticipated complaints from wheat farmers similar to those made recently by corn growers, who protested against allotments which averaged 19 per cent smaller than last year's plantings.

While the nation normally needs 750,000,000 bushels annually to supply domestic and export requirements, agriculture department crop experts said, present prospects point to a harvest of between 925,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 bushels this summer.

Face Loss of Payments.

Under the new crop control law, the officials said, growers could comply with or ignore the allotments—but only those who complied would be eligible for maximum federal benefit payments and wheat loans.

If the 1939 goal is placed at 50,000,000 acres, allotments would be 12,500,000 acres less than distributed among growers for the 1938 crop.

Williamson, president of the New York Central railroad, have received awards from the National Safety council for the best safety results in their respective groups in 1937, Williamson announced today.

These awards are based on the minimum number of casualties [killed and injured] to employés in train, service, and nontrain accidents.

The awards will be presented at a dinner at the Union League club, Chicago, May 16.

Ask Congress Scan Tangled Tax Structure

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers, contending the present federal, state, and local tax structure is a tremendous burden on the national economy, asked congress today to inaugurate a study aimed at its simplification.

"Much can be done to simplify and coördinate our system of taxation," said a statement by the association's board of directors. It was transmitted to congress by Charles R. Hook, association president.

175,000 Taxing Bodies.

"There are today more than 175,000 taxing units in the United States, and taxation experts believe this number could be reduced nearly 90 per cent.

"At the same time there is an increasing duplication of federal and state taxation of the same tax sources.

"So severe has become the system that the law of diminishing returns has begun to operate in many fields."

Ask Nonpartisan Commission.

The board suggested that the proposed study be conducted by a nonpartisan commission including representatives of the congressional joint committee on the internal revenue taxation, the treasury department, major branches of productive enterprise, and independent taxation experts.

Hook, who is president of the American Rolling Mill company, said in a letter to members of congress which accompanied the board's proposal that the pending tax revision bill was "a real step forward."

CROP REPORTING SERVICE NEARS 75TH BIRTHDAY

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—Simultaneously with the announcement Tuesday of the department of agriculture's May crop report, covering acreage and condition of winter wheat and rye, the department will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the government crop reporting service.

Secretary Wallace has invited a group of veteran crop reporters to Washington to participate in the anniversary celebration. The department will inscribe the names of the oldest living crop reporters on a roll of honor.

In many farm families there have been three successive generations of crop reporters. The crop reporting service was started in May, 1863, by Isaac Newton, first commissioner of agriculture, appointed by President Lincoln in 1862.

The first crop report of May, 1863, was prepared on the basis of reports from 2,000 farmers in twenty-one states. Today reports are based on returns from 200,000 voluntary reporters.

Weather Aids Wheat Crop; Prices Lower

Weather conditions last week were generally favorable for the wheat crop. Apprehension over dry weather damage in the southwest has been temporarily allayed by persistent showers in that area.

Dry weather would be welcomed in some sections of Kansas to check the already rank growth.

The department of agriculture's May crop report will be released tomorrow. It is expected to show about the same or slightly above the recent estimates of Chicago statisticians, indicating a winter wheat crop of 746,000,000 bushels, one of the largest harvests in the history of the country.

Wheat Futures Lower.

The favorable weather conditions in North America, lack of export demand and the general uncertainty regarding business resulted in all deliveries of wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade selling early last week at the lowest level since 1934. The rally from the lows was feeble.

Corn futures fluctuated slowly within relatively narrow price limits last week, liberal export sales being offset by large quantities of cash grain sold by farmers for shipment to terminal markets.

Planting of corn is progressing rapidly northward.

Recent rains are reported to have been very favorable for the oats, rye, and barley crops. The government report will give an estimate on the rye crop, but quantitative estimates on corn, oats, and barley will not be made until July.

CLIMB IN LOCAL GOVERNMENTS' COSTS PREDICTED

The cost of American local governments will be $1,841,000,000 higher in 1940 than it was in 1935, according to a survey in the "1938 Municipal Year Book" released yesterday at the headquarters of the International City Managers' association, 1913 East 60th street. The cost in 1935 was $5,459,000,000. By 1940 it is expected to rise to $7,300,000,000.

Even if there is a business recovery, the survey said, relief will continue to cost local and state governments each $250,000,000 in each of the next three years. Any saving in relief costs presumably will be turned to the federal government's benefit, the study asserted, adding this would enable the national government to reduce its expenditures from $3,008,000,000 in 1935 to an estimated $800,000,000 in 1940.

Potato Growers Will Vote on Federal Crop Control

Potato growers in thirteen southern and western states will begin voting today on whether they want the federal government to regulate marketing of this year's crop, the agriculture department announced.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Whether or not you have ever lived on a farm you will enjoy "Day By Day On the Farm," a fascinating chronicle of year 'round activities on the Tribune experimental farms by Frank Ridgway, Tribune agricultural editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Also on sale at the Tribune Wheaton farm. Price, 25 cents. Postpaid, 32 cents.

Plowing and Planting.

May 8, 1938.

WEATHER has been ideal for field work on the Du Page county farm recently. Teams and tractors have been kept in the fields from early morning until late each afternoon during the last week. Plowmen are finding the ground in excellent condition for preparing mellow seed beds with few clods.

A light rain a few days ago and sunshine are stimulating growth and adding inches to the blades of the legumes, grasses, oats, and other newly planted crops.

Although oats seeding was finished only two weeks ago, the plants in most parts of the fields average about 2½ inches; some of the earlier oats are about five inches tall. Recent cool weather has furnished good growing condition for the oats.

More than seventy acres of oats of the Columbia, Iowar, and a special variety of the Swedish type are being grown for grain on the farm this year.

36 acres of corn planted.

Workers finished their spring plowing of land to be used in growing corn the latter part of last week. Approximately 36 acres of corn already have been planted. Ten acres more will be planted this week. Sprouting of the corn has been retarded slightly by the cool weather. Corn is a heat loving plant and makes a better start where the weather is slightly warmer than it has been during the last week.

The work of preparing seed beds and planting both experimental and exhibit crops is under way in the test plots. Twenty-three different kinds of table vegetable crops were sown in test field A last week. The planting was completed Saturday. Among the early crops planted last week are onions, radishes, lettuce, beets, peas, bunch and pole beans, carrots, and early potatoes.

A succession of these crops will be planted and kept growing in the test field for the benefit of city school children and other summer visitors to study at close range.

A little later, plans call for the planting of sweet corn and the transplanting of cabbage and tomato plants.

An old fashioned watermelon patch is on the manager's 1938 planting schedule. This is the first time the experimental farm has attempted the growing of watermelons. Plot workers already are talking about the long slices of red meated melons that will be ready to pick late in August or early in September. Several hills of cantaloupe will be put in the melon patch.

Perennial crops that lived over winter are making a good showing in the test plots. These include English white clover, Dutch white clover, and Ladino clover. Seradella, a German clover started in the plots last year, also came through the winter. A thick crop of annual lespedezes—Harbin and Corean—are now showing above ground.

Hops that grew from roots left in the ground over winter are running all over the trellises. Some of the vines are about six feet long. Strawberries are blooming in the berry experimental plantation.

United Aircraft.

Investors' Guide: Kindly comment on United Aircraft corporation.—G. W.

Answer: As an important manufacturer of airplanes and aeronautical equipment, the United Aircraft corporation has benefited from both rearmament and the expansion of commercial aviation. Profits have continued to rise despite the business depression. About half of the corporation's gross sales are to military services of the United States government.

United Aircraft now carries on its manufacturing activities principally through the Pratt & Whitney aircraft division, the Chance Vought aircraft division, the Hamilton standard propeller division, and the Sikorsky aircraft division.

Pratt & Whitney is one of the largest manufacturers of aircraft engines. It makes the well known Wasp and Hornet single row and double row radial air cooled engines used extensively for both military and commercial purposes. The Chance Vought division specializes in making single seat and two seat military biplanes.

The Hamilton standard propeller division manufactures, among other types of propellers, a constant speed, controlable propeller which automatically controls engine speed. This propeller is being widely used on military and commercial planes. Sikorsky Aircraft manufactures large size amphibions and flying boats, including the S-42 flying boats used on many Pan-American Airways routes and the S-43 amphibions used by the United States army and navy.

Net income for the first quarter of 1938 rose to $11,885,506, or 42 cents a capital share, from $698,852, or 28 cents a share, in the corresponding 1937 period. Sales and operating revenues in all of 1937 were $29,295,491 and net income was $3,856,272, or $1.52 a share, compared with sales and operating revenues of $22,303,421 and net income of $1,926,442, or 76 cents a share, in 1936.

Sales and operating revenue in 1935 were only $11,247,400 and net income was $434,635, or 21 cents a share. Loss was $27,027 in four months ending Dec. 31, 1934. The corporation was formed in 1934 by the breaking up of United Aircraft and Transport corporation into United Aircraft corporation, United Air Lines Transport corporation, and the Boeing Airplane company.

United Aircraft has issued approximately 2,531,000 shares of $5 par capmately 2,524,800 shares of $5 par capital stock. Dividends totaling $1 a share were paid in 1937.

FORD TO CARRY NLRB FIGHT TO HIGHEST COURT

Covington, Ky., May 8.—(AP)—The Ford Motor company notified the national labor relations board today of intentions to carry to the United States Supreme court its fight to prevent the board from regaining jurisdiction of its case against the company.

The board meanwhile notified Ford counsel its decision of last Dec. 22, ordering the firm to reinstate 29 Michigan workers allegedly discharged for union activity, would be vacated Tuesday "unless sufficient cause to the contrary" is shown. Ford counsel here tomorrow will ask the Court of Appeals to stay a ruling permitting the NLRB to vacate the order. The company wants a high court showdown on the order.

U. S. Officials to Seek Way to Spur Business Loans

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Heads of federal banking agencies will meet tomorrow to consider relaxing restrictions to encourage banks to make loans to business men. Banks do not like to make loans which examiners will criticize. Secretary Morgenthau, with this in mind, has asked the federal reserve board, the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, and the controler of the currency to look into their examining methods to see if they can be eased.

Many Illinois Firms Grant Paid Vacations

Typical provisions of plans by which many of the larger corporations in Illinois give plant employés vacations of varying lengths each year with pay were disclosed yesterday in a survey made by the Illinois Manufacturers' association. The study showed the vacations ranged up to three weeks for persons employed fifteen to twenty years.

The Armour & Co. plan, adopted in 1923, was said to be typical. Armour grants one week with pay each year to men and women employed on an hourly or piece work basis provided they have had two years of continuous service. Persons employed more than five years but less than twenty get two weeks' vacation.

Some Get Three Weeks.

Women employés of fifteen years' service or more are granted three weeks and men receive the same amount after twenty or more years.

The Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company will give most of its 15,000 workers vacations in July at the company's expense, the association said. The plant will be operated on a curtailed basis with a crew of about 600 for two weeks. Shop employés will get from three days for six months' employment, to a maximum of two weeks after two years of service. Workers with one year's service will receive one week with pay.

Other Companies Mentioned.

Among other companies mentioned in the association's report were the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company; all of the meat packing companies; Illinois Bell Telephone company; Commonwealth Edison, Inland Steel, International Harvester, Peoples Gas Light and Coke, Western Union Telegraph, Deere & Co., Sears Roebuck & Co., Montgomery Ward & Co., Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing, E. I. du Pont de Nemours, Corn Products Refining, General Foods, Packard Motor Car, and Procter and Gamble company.

In contrast with the policies of large Illinois companies, the study indicated that of 611 companies belonging to the National Metal Trades association 290 grant paid vacations to production employés and 321 do not.

DEMAND BAILIE'S GROUP ATTEND C. & O. MEETING

Cleveland, O., May 8.—(AP)—In a new move in the struggle for control of the $2,000,000,000 former Van Sweringen rail "empire," the proxy committee for the management of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad company today notified the Bailie committee of its intention to protest to "the proper authorities" if the Bailie group fails to attend the C. & O. annual meeting Tuesday at Richmond, Va.

It was intimated that by "the proper authorities," the management committee meant the securities and exchange commission.

The telegram sent to Earle Bailie, John L. Dickinson, and John B. Hollister, who compose the committee soliciting proxies for the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, charged the Bailie group with intending to withhold the proxies to prevent a quorum.

Frost Reported in Part of Nation's Wheat Belt

The government weather bureau at Chicago reported last night that frost occurred Saturday night in parts of the nation's wheat belt. Meteorologist C. A. Donnel said frost or freezing temperatures were reported in Kansas, the Texas Panhandle, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and Minnesota. Reports did not indicate whether there was any damage, Donnel said.

Steel Outlook Lacks Cheer; Output Falls

Little cheer is found in the current outlook for the steel industry, the magazine Steel indicated yesterday in its weekly review. Operations slipped a point to 31 per cent of ingot capacity last week, and there are no indications of an upturn at the present time, it said.

"Spring seasonal factors having failed to support the market in expected degree," the magazine continued, "a slightly downward movement is apparent in steel buying. Consumers show no tendency to buy for the future, covering only current needs and wherever possible resorting to inventory. With April showing a smaller volume of specifications than March, the first week in May has brought no indication of an upturn.

Midyear May Bring Revival.

"Factors in a midyear revival are found in the new model season for automobiles, specifications for steel for an unusual volume of naval and private shipbuilding already placed, and the hope that government aid may bring additional railroad purchasing. How much effect may be felt from the 'pump priming' effort of the government is problematical and the time lag is likely to put this over for some time at best."

Except for public work, the structural field offers little in the way of new business for the steel industry, the magazine pointed out.

Implement Demand Drops.

Steel makers also are beginning to feel the effect of the seasonal tapering of farm implement manufacturing, which has been one of the steadiest sources of business during the last year and a half.

The decline in scrap prices continued last week, but at a slower rate. Steel's composite of prices of steel making grades of scrap was 12 cents lower at $11.59 a ton. Scrap weakness also caused a decline of 2 cents in the iron and steel composite to $38.52 a ton. The finished steel composite was unchanged at $61.70 a ton.

NORTH. PACIFIC STOCK PANIC WAS 37 YEARS AGO

Today is the thirty-seventh anniversary of the memorable Northern Pacific "panic" in which frenzied bidding by opposing banking groups for control of the road skyrocketed the price of its stock to $1,000 a share.

It was May 9, 1901, that marked the culmination of a great financial struggle which gave the New York Stock exchange one of the most exciting episodes in its history. J. P. Morgan & Co., representing the Hill-Burlington-Great Northern interests, was pitted against Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers for the Harriman-Union Pacific interests.

So relentlessly did the two groups bid up the price of the Northern Pacific stock that short sellers could not cover at any price. The crush was so complete that the antagonists finally joined hands to ease the crisis, each side disclaiming any intent to trap the shorts.

The two banking groups finally reached an agreement by which the Northern Securities company was formed to hold the stock which they had bought.

LOOP EXHIBITS TO DEMONSTRATE FACTORY WORK

Several State street stores this week will devote some of their window space to working exhibits of Chicago manufacturing, showing employés from their local factories performing regular duties. The occasion is observance of Chicago Products week, a week set aside by Mayor Kelly and the Chicago Association of Commerce to emphasize the city's manufacturing activities.

Bank Reserves.

The board of governors of the federal reserve system is empowered to raise or lower the reserves which member banks of the system must maintain as protection for their deposits. The power was given to the board under the banking act of 1935. Prior to that time the reserve rates were fixed by statute and not subject to change.

Theoretically, the power to fix bank reserves enables the reserve board to regulate the volume of bank credit, lowering reserve rates when more credit is needed and raising rates when dangerous credit expansion threatens.

Until the recent reduction of 12½ per cent in reserve rates, ordered by the board April 16, all the changes that had been made were increases. The rates that had existed prior to 1935 had been doubled by the board, the maximum increase permitted under the act.

The recent cut in reserve rates adds an estimated three quarters of a billion dollars to the free funds in the banking system available for lending or investing.

PULLMAN PROFIT DROPS SHARPLY FROM YEAR AGO

Other Firms Report Varying Results.

Pullman, Inc., and subsidiaries yesterday reported a sharp decline in first quarter earnings compared with a year ago. A separate statement by the Pullman company, sleeping car affiliate of Pullman, Inc., showed a net loss for March and lower earnings for the three months.

Guy W. Vaughan of Curtiss-Wright.

The Curtiss-Wright corporation, manufacturer of airplanes, reported higher first quarter profits than a year ago, and Pan-American Airways reported lower earnings for 1937.

March net loss of $114,440 of the Pullman company was after deduction of a reserve of $200,000 for amortization of air conditioning investment.

Difference in Deductions.

In March, 1937, net income was $383,491, with no deduction for air conditioning reserve. For the three months net income was $34,240, against $1,631,020 last year. The 1938 figure included deduction of $600,000 air conditioning reserve.

Although Pullman, Inc., and all subsidiaries showed for the first quarter a drop in net income to $428,551, against $3,276,699 in 1937, earnings for the twelve months to March 31 totaled $9,427,802, against $8,423,543 earned in the preceding year.

Guy W. Vaughan, president of Curtiss-Wright, reported first quarter earnings of $733,910, or 63 cents pe class A share, compared with $269,251, or 23 cents a share, in 1937.

Operating Costs Increase.

Pan-American Airways in 1937 earned less because of increased operating costs, in spite of record trafic gains in all departments, Juan T. Trippe, president, told stockholders in the annual report. Net income for the year was $510,446, against $955,352 in 1936.

The Parker Pen company reported for the twelve months ended Feb. 28 net income of $645,763, equal to $3.29 a share, compared with $621,494, or $3.20 a share, in the calendar year 1936. The company changed its fiscal year to begin March 1.

Kenneth Parker, president, said "the company's satisfactory earnings were due to its large volume of continuous advertising, retailer coöperation, and improved products."
